"Ashes to Ashes" Wins Pulitzer Prize For Richard Kluger

The first clue that something was up came Monday evening at 5:15. Richard Kluger and his wife Phyllis returned to their Montgomery home from New York city to find an answering machine overflowing with messages.

Pushing "play," they unleashed a deluge of interview requests and congratulations that continued into the next day. Mr. Kluger, it seemed, had been awarded the Pulitzer Prize.

He later received a "very terse" telegram from the president of Columbia University, officially informing him that his book, "Ashes to Ashes: America's Hundred-Year Cigarette War, the Public Health, and the Unabashed Triumph of Philip Morris" had received the prize for General Nonfiction, but by that time, it was old news.

Neighbors Promise Long Fight To Prevent Convent Lands From Becoming Office Park

Opposition is mounting to Alain and Katherine Kornhauser's application to the Township Zoning Board for a use variance to permit them to use the Our Lady of Princeton property as the offices of their transportation and computer software company, ALK Associates Inc.

The application is scheduled to be heard Wednesday, April 16, at 8 at the regular meeting of the Township Zoning Board in the Valley Road building.

Ben Tregoe of Heather Lane and Peter Hegener and John R. Slapp, both Great Road residents, are spearheading the opposition. In March they wrote a letter to other neighbors stating their unequivocal objection to what ALK is proposing and soliciting support for what they describe as "the massive commercial invasion" threatening the residential neighborhood. They have hired attorneys, a planner and a traffic consultant and are prepared to do battle.

The property is located at the corner of The Great Road and Drakes Corner Road and consists of 43 acres and several buildings which have been used in recent years as a convent, religious retreat and as a day school facility for the Montessori School. The current zoning is residential. The Kornhausers are contract purchasers, having entered into a contract with the owners, the Marianites of the Holy Cross, late last year.

The application asks for a variance to use up to 57,000 square feet in various buildings on the property as office space. They include the convent buildings, the chapel basement (although this area would remain as educational use by the Montessori

Five Newcomers Are Running For Three School Board Seats

This Tuesday, Princeton voters will select three new members of the nine-member Regional School Board. The two open Borough seats are being sought by Therese Flaherty, Bucky Hayes, and Catherine Parks Loevner. Candidates for the one open seat in the Township are Jack Marrero and William Sword. None of the five candidates has ever before run for Board office.

The five have come to represent two opposing factions in the public school community, particularly when viewed through the prism of letters sent to TOWN TOPICS. For the most part, the candidates themselves have placed less emphasis on this division than have their supporters and detractors.

It is not easy to completely characterize the different sides because

Woodrow Wilson School Talk for Sen. Torricelli

Senator Robert G. Torricelli, D-N.J., will give a lecture entitled "The American Community in the 21st Century" Monday, April 14, at 4:15, Dodds Auditorium, Robertson Hall, Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Mr. Torricelli was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1996, after a 14-year career in Congress. First elected to the ### Competition for Township Complex Planned for June 5 through June 8.

Plans for the architectural competition to design a new Township municipal building are underway. Kevin Wilkes, a registered architect and principal in Princeton Design Guild, and consulting architect for Township Committee, reported on the latest developments at Monday's Committee meeting.

Previously, building plans submitted by Trenton architects Faridy Thome Fraytak had been put on hold two years ago, when the Borough-Township consolidation study was agreed upon. After consolidation was defeated, Committee re-examined plans for the complex, which included a municipal building and police headquarters, and members found they were not satisfied.

Mayor Michele Tuck-Ponder and Committeewoman Roslyn Denard were named as a two-person sub-committee to review the designs. Both wanted a building priced at the $9 million that the Faridy Thome Fraytak building was estimated to cost, and Mrs. Denard also hoped to see a community center incorporated into the plan.

Committee authorized Princeton Design Guild to hold a three-day "design charette" or architectural competition to be open to design teams throughout the state and beyond. Each team must include at least one architect licensed to practice in New Jersey.

Mr. Wilkes said the charette is now planned for June 5 through June 8. Promotional material is ready for release, and a poster, outlining entry details, has been mailed to architects in the state.

"We are very excited," he said. "We've had a lot of feedback from architects in town, and there is lots of interest in the competition. I'm confident there will be scores of entries."

Prizes of $10,000, $5,000, and $2,500 will be awarded to the first, second, and third prize winners. The jury, which will evaluate the designs, will consist of Mayor Tuck-Ponder, Committeewoman Roslyn Denard, Township Administrator James Pascale, Township Chief of Police Anthony Gaylord, Township Engineer Robert Kiser, Director of Planning, Princeton Regional Planning Board Lee Solow.

Also, Donald Prowler, FAIA, Architect and Adjunct Professor, Universities of Pennsylvania and Princeton; Alan Mallach, AICP, Planner and Director of Housing and Development, City of Trenton; and Peter Waldman, Professor and Chair, University of Virginia Department of Architecture.

Entry fees are $25, and registration deadline is 5 p.m. June 2. For more information, call the Township Clerk's office 924-5704.

authorized the use of force in the Gulf War. As a member of the International Relations Committee, he authored the Cuban Democracy Act of 1992, which became the first cohesive policy toward Cuba in 30 years.

Named by Newsweek a House leader on issues concerning the Middle East and Israeli security, Mr. Torricelli sits on the Select Committee on Intelligence. He has gained attention for his controversial decision to expose activities by CIA informants in Guatemala that he believed constituted criminal activity.

On the domestic side, Sen. Torricelli is particularly concerned with issues of environmental preservation, gun control, and education. As a senior member of the Committee on Science, Space and Technology, he wrote the bill that created the Superfund Innovative Technologies (SITE) program, which is helping to clean Superfund sites both in his former New Jersey congressional district, the 9th District in Bergen County, and nationwide.

He also wrote the law requiring double hulls on oil tankers and led efforts to preserve Sterling Forest, which is the watershed for much of northern New Jersey. Sen. Torricelli also has worked to pass new legislation regarding crime. On the education front, he is a strong advocate of school reform. He wrote the recent legislation that offers demonstration grants to public schools that implement a longer school day or year.

Need for Rt. 27 Drainage Repair Discussed at Township Meeting

Drainage problems on Wheatshaf Lane and the Princeton-Kingston Road and their connection with Route 27 were major concerns at Monday night's Township Committee meeting. Residents of both neighborhoods were on hand as Township Engineer, Robert Kiser gave a slide presentation showing particular problem areas, and also brought Committee up-to-date on his communications with the New Jersey Department of Transportation (DOT).

Because Route 27, a State highway, is currently undergoing resurfacing, the situation has become even more crucial. Mr. Kiser had hoped DOT could address the drainage problem at the same time the road work was undertaken. Because of the lack of curbing and earthen berms or shoulders along areas of Route 27, water readily runs down driveways of adjacent houses, as well as down through the wooded area onto Wheatshaf Lane.

"Unfortunately, since Princeton Township was not consulted ahead of time about the Route 27 resurfacing, we didn't have the opportunity to get this information to the DOT early on," explained Mr. Kiser.

TOPICS Of the Town

Upon learning of the project, however, he has contacted the State numerous times. In a field meeting last fall, DOT project manager, Omar Hameed walked along Route 27 with Mr. Kiser to assess storm drainage problems.

In follow-up letters, Mr. Kiser requested that cement concrete curbing be installed along the north side of Route 27 between Snowden Lane and just east of Locust Lane, an especially troublesome area.

"Along with the curbing, additional storm water inlets were requested," he added, and "in addition all properties abutting Route 27 should be protected with an earthen shoulder berm, and all driveways should be appropriately bermed, where necessary, to prevent Route 27 storm water from discharging onto their properties."

Many Complaints

In his correspondence, Mr. Kiser also noted the many complaints of neighboring residents regarding water run-off.

The response of DOT has been somewhat, although not completely, disappointing, he noted at the meeting. The department was unwilling to install additional curbing, but it would consider building an earthen-type shoulder, serving to keep water on the road. The State will also install mounded aprons on some driveways.

Part of DOT's reluctance to comply with all requests stemmed from the cost overruns of repair work on Route 206, explained Mr. Kiser.

In his presentation, he showed slides depicting water running down driveways and often right up to front doors. This occurred in mild, not even heavy rains, he noted.

The problem, especially on Wheatshaf Lane, is exacerbated by the prevalent underground springs and streams, he added.

The fact that many residents had written and telephoned DOT was helpful, Mr. Kiser pointed out. "The more telephone calls and faxes DOT receives, the stronger our position is."

Mayor Michele Tuck-Ponder had also written John J. Haley, Commissioner of DOT, requesting that the drainage problem be addressed as part of the Route 27 Improvement Project, and she emphasized the more the residents spoke out, the better the chances of action. She said she will also contact the NJ State Assembly and the Senate about the issue.

A number of residents who had already written to DOT, also spoke out at the meeting. Eldon Earl of Princeton-Kingston Road, who had taken pictures in the rain of storm water seeping onto his property, commented on the problems of his Wheatshaf Lane neighbors.

"We've been aware for years of the complaints of Wheatshaf Lane residents about our water coming down onto their property. I want them to know the water's been coming down for 500 years, and it's not Earl Water!"

Some Relief

He noted that in the 20 years he had lived in his house, he had hoped more curbing would be added along Route 27, but had been disappointed by DOT's response.

"I was just shunted off, and when we invited Lynn Rich, DOT Program Manager, to attend this meeting, we were not surprised when she didn't come."

In summary, he said, "We surely would like to have some relief, and we're willing to do whatever we can to achieve it."

Wheatshaf Lane residents stressed the need for DOT to address the drainage problems, noting that current Township plans for repairs on Wheatshaf "could all go to waste until the Route 27 situation is addressed. We will do our part with letters and phone calls, and if there is any way we can be useful and active, we will."

Princeton-Kingston Road resident, J. B. Smith made the added suggestion that in order for residents to make the most impact, they should employ a direct approach.

"You should rent a school bus, round up the neighbors, and go down and talk to them in Trenton."

Mr. Kiser said he hoped that DOT might consider re-scheduling work on Route 27 near these areas until further decision is reached.

Vonvorys and Godfrey Will Run For Township Committee in Fall

Colin Vonvorys

Leonard Godfrey

The Township Democrats have turned to Leonard Godfrey, who served on Township Committee from 1989 to 1991 but was defeated for a second term, to be their candidate for Township Committee in the upcoming general election.

Mr. Godfrey will seek the seat being vacated by Carl Mayer, who announced in February that he would not seek a second term. He will run against Colin Vonvorys, whom the Township Republicans have selected to be their candidate. Mr. Vonvorys ran unsuccessfully last year with Michael Perna against the Democratic incumbents, Michele Tuck-Ponder and Steven Frakt, who were running for a second term.

Mr. Vonvorys, 35, is currently serving on the Joint Civil Rights Commission. He grew up in Princeton and in Lawrenceville and currently lives on Mt. Lucas Road. He is a graduate of Lawrence High School and the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a product specialist engaged in software development for financial institutions with a computer software company in Malvern, Pa.

He describes himself as a strong advocate for the environment and open space preservation.

Mr. Godfrey, 69, is associate director of patents and licensing for the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. He has lived in Princeton for 20 years and in the Princeton area since 1962. While on Township Committee he served on the Sewer Operating Committee, the Joint Recreation Board and the Joint Health Commission. His wife Gillian was director of the Suzanne Patterson Center for many years.

Their two children are graduates of Princeton schools. In 1990, when he ran for a second term (he lost to Laurence Glasberg), Mr. Godfrey campaigned on a plank that included fighting for a bypass around Princeton, reducing the local tax burden, making the library accessible to Township residents, and completion of an active recreation plan.

No Agreement Yet By Borough Council On Renovations

Last Tuesday night, Borough Council again discussed the future of the Borough Hall renovation. Again the issue was left hanging, and further discussions at future meetings were promised.

The project has bogged down amidst lengthy discussions of scope and cost. Council members Mark Freda, Mildred Trotman and Arthur Saylor voted in February to move forward with construction. But the support of one additional Council member is needed in order to approve bonding beyond the $3.1 million already approved. Council members David Goldfarb, Sandra Starr, and Roger Martindell all voted against moving ahead with the renovation. And, so far, none has been amenable to approving more money.

This time, the project's construction manager, Edward Durrell III, was brought in to see if he could suggest savings that would bring the cost down to $3.1 million from its currently estimated $3.8 million. He told Council there was not much to cut unless the scope of the project itself was reduced.

Mr. Durrell also urged Council to move forward so that bids could be awarded in September and the work begun in October. "This would be a winter schedule, from October 1 to April 1, and would avoid the labor increase that occurs every May," he said. He added that the bids would be very competitive because people look for a winter job.

"Where are the greatest savings at the least impact?" Mr. Goldfarb asked. Mr. Durrell said the job had been stripped down and that, unless the scope of the work were changed, it could not get any tighter.

Finally, after much talk, a potential savings of $10,000 to $15,000 was found on the cost of plantings in the rear of the building.

Mr. Freda asked that the Council approve a "not-to-exceed" number for the project so that bidding could move forward. "If we come up with this number, staff could put bonding in place and resolve a couple of questions in the next few weeks," he said.

Mr. Goldfarb said he didn't want to be held to a number, and that he also didn't want to give up his leverage on the vote to bond.

"If you have that level of distrust, I'm sorry," said Mr. Freda.

Mr. Goldfarb's suggestion that the project go out to bid to get some exact costs, and then proceed with bonding, did not go anywhere either.

Finally, Mr. Freda asked Council members to prepare a list of questions about the building and submit them in writing. Sounding frustrated, he said, "It's 11:15. We've been here for hours and accomplished very little."

Neighbors Express Concerns About Noise, Traffic As PDS Presents Plans for Re-Designed Ice Rink

Concerns of three neighbors about noise, traffic and creeping commercialism dominated the discussion at the Planning Board's meeting last Thursday when Princeton Day School's application to replace its existing ice skating rink with an enclosed facility was on the agenda.

Only six members of the Planning Board were present, one shy of a quorum. This was the second time that PDS had brought its attorney, engineer, architect, building contractor, business manager and trustee in charge of buildings and grounds to a hearing on this application. In March, PDS came before the Planning Board's Site Plan Advisory Board (SPRAB), only to discover on arrival that there was not a quorum and therefore no report could be written for the benefit of the Planning Board.

Cognizant of this situation, and the fact that there were three Great Road neighbors in attendance who had concerns about the proposed rink, Planning Board Chairwoman Corinne Kyle decided to go ahead and hold what amounted to a concept review with public comment. The Planning Board has cancelled its regular meeting for Thursday, April 17, and instead will hold a special meeting Wednesday, April 16, to hear the PDS application and attend to other matters which were on last week's agenda.

This meeting will take place at 9 p.m. in Borough Hall, because the Township Zoning Board of Adjustment will be meeting in the Valley Road building meeting room.

What is Proposed

Princeton Day School is proposing to demolish its 28-year-old ice skating rink, which is open on three sides, and replace it with a 33,312-square-foot enclosed facility that will have more amenities. Originally, a 500-seat grandstand was planned, which raised issues about parking and the Township requirement for putting in one tree for every 3.4 parking spaces.

The school has decided to reduce the number of seats which means that the adjacent parking area, with 59 spaces and some existing trees, will be adequate and no variance is being requested.

The new rink will be built on approximately the same foot print as the existing rink. However, the Zamboni room and the ice-making equipment have been shifted from the west side of the building to the east so that a reception area to be used during other sports seasons can be created on the west side adjacent to the parking lot.

This redesign, which puts the mechanical equipment several hundred feet closer to the neighbors on the Great Road, is one of the things that concern the neighbors. The other is the possibility that, in order to defray the $2.5 million cost of the new facility, PDS will implement a year-round ice skating/hockey program and this in turn will bring more noise and additional traffic to the area.

Stephen O'Connor, 793 Great Road, wrote a letter to Cindy F. Shapiro, PDS business manager, stating his objections and those of his neighbor, Robert J. Gallick of 783 Great Road. "Currently we must endure the increased noise, traffic and inconvenience of a program that runs from 6:00 am to 11:00 pm every weekend for nearly half the year," Mr. O'Connor wrote. "The prospects of having to endure this nuisance all year long is intolerable even to consider, never mind experience."

In speaking to the board, Mr. O'Connor maintained that the building would be made of corrugated metal and therefore enclosing it would not deaden the noise he now experiences. This point was later refuted by the builder, Anthony Scozzari, who said the new building would be a combination of pre-engineered metal, masonry and glass.

Robert Stockman, the PDS trustee who also serves as chair of the building and grounds committee and has taken a personal interest in the rink project, told the board that it was the school's intent to extend the season "moderately" by adding a month in the fall and a month in the spring but said that the use "will continue as it has for 28 years."

Primary Uses

The primary use will be the PDS ice hockey program during the school hours on weekdays, with the Princeton Skating Club using it on weekday evenings and the Nassau Hockey Club on weekends and one night a week. Mr. Stockman and other school officials did not rule out the possibility that an ice hockey or figure skating camp would be held in the summer.

However, he maintained that the enclosed rink would be "a vast improvement" over the existing facility from an aesthetic point of view as well as in reduction of noise and glare. To meet the neighbors' concerns, PDS is willing to re-route weekend and evening traffic to and from the rink through the main campus via the main entrance off the Great Road rather than from a secondary road that goes off the Great Road West.

There were several comments about the poor state of the vegetation (mainly pine trees) that were originally intended to screen the rink from the road. PDS has indicated a willingness to beef up this vegetation, but would rather phase in over time some of the other improvements suggested by the professional planner, the landscape consultant and the Township engineer as conditions to approval. They include installing a sidewalk along the interior road where students walking to the rink would travel and replacing some of the paving in the parking lot with landscaping.

Mr. Stockman said that the interior road is primarily for bus access in the morning and again in the afternoon and is not used the rest of the day. He said the school has an ongoing program to improve the campus, which would include repaving all the lots and walkways but would rather not have to tackle these items at this time as a condition of approval.

Mr. Galick suggested putting the rink where the parking lot is now so that parking, rather than the rink, would be closer to the neighbors "so that we can have some peace," as he put it. Cindy Shapiro, the PDS business manager, said this was not an option because there are wetlands just beyond the existing parking lot. Alice Cheng of the Planning Board suggested putting the reception area at the east end of the facility, closer to the neighbors, and returning the mechanical equipment to the west end.

Mr. Stockman said the reception area was designed to be accessible from the parking lot and to keep other users, such as the football team, from getting into the ice area.

Mechanical Equipment

Much of the discussion centered on the mechanical equipment. Mr. Stockman explained that the Zamboni will discharge its accumulated ice shavings into an ice pit inside the building where it will melt and be drained off. Currently, the Zamboni dumps its load in the parking lot outside the rink.

Mr. Scozzari told the board that all the equipment to make ice will be enclosed in an insulated room with masonry walls and will not be able to be heard outside the building. The one exception is an evaporative condenser which will be located outside at the corner of the side facing the Great Road. Asked how loud this piece of equipment would be, Mr. Scozzari said it is rated at 52 to 59 decibels at 50 feet.

Although the Township noise ordinance was read aloud, it was not entirely clear, because the ordinance is a confusing one, whether this is within the permitted limits or not. The matter will no doubt be reviewed again in the special meeting April 16.

"The prospects of having to endure this nuisance all year long is intolerable even to consider, never mind experience."

During board comment, Margen Penick suggested a fence with shrubs around it might be a more effective way to screen the rink from the neighbors. She also said she would not want to see the rink and the parking lot flipped, because that would put parking closer to the neighbors and many people object to the lights of cars shining in their houses. She said she thought the problems surrounding the rink were "solvable."

Bill Enslin expressed concern about traffic and asked for figures on usage by the Princeton Skating Club and the Nassau Hockey Club. He also questioned whether the parking lot was sufficient and where overflow parking would go. Joe O'Neill said the further away from the neighbors the external condenser unit could be placed the better.

Richard Sinding suggested restricting the times and hours. Earlier in the evening Mr. O'Connor had said that he would be happier if the rink was restricted to school use. Ms. Kyle said she personally thought as a matter of policy that the availability of the rink for the use of others in the community was "an asset."

Close Encounters of the Worst Kind

Research and documentation are two big factors in the life of a library. So when it became clear that Public Library staff members were entering a minefield when they attempted to cross the intersection of Wiggins and Witherspoon streets, a decision was made to document close encounters with moving vehicles. Because library employees park diagonally across the street, at the Arts Council building, they frequently have to cross this intersection.

Beginning this winter, the library's staff association surveyed members to find out who had found themselves in unwanted closeness to moving cars. After reviewing the data, the association agreed there was a problem. The information was passed on to Mayor Marvin Reed along with a request that something be done.

At 5 p.m. in January, on a cold and rainy day, a library employee was knocked down and suffered several bruises. On a mid-winter afternoon, a staff member ended up leaning on a car with hands resting on its hood. The employee said the driver was paying no attention to pedestrian traffic.

Another staff member was pushed off the front fender of a car one day in early spring, and another was clipped at the knee at dusk on a winter evening.

A number of library employees suffered near misses, once when a car nearly went through the red light. This particular person experienced at least three other similar incidents.

Once a staff member literally had to jump out of the way because the driver, who saw the pedestrian, refused to yield.

As recently as March 21, a member of the library staff saw a pedestrian hit while crossing with the light between the library and the cemetery.

Another Bad Intersection

The battle between the car and the pedestrian was also featured at a recent Borough Council meeting when Adam David, a student at the Graduate College, raised concerns about pedestrian safety at the intersection of College Road and Alexander Street. He brought with him a petition signed by 65 students who live in the Graduate College.

The crossing is dangerous, Mr. David said, because of very heavy car traffic on Alexander Street, with many vehicles travelling in excess of the 25 m.p.h. limit. Cars generally disregard the pedestrian crosswalks, he said, "and yet determined pedestrians walk, thinking 'they have to stop for me.'"

He also told Council that the intersection is a blind spot because the bend in Alexander makes it difficult to see cars traveling in the direction of Route 1. And parked cars on Alexander make it difficult for pedestrians to see anything in the road, he added.

Mayor Reed asked that the faded crosswalk be replaced and that signs at that location be checked. He suggested that perhaps one or two parking meters could come out in order to improve sight lines.

Longer term plans, he said, will have to be discussed with Princeton University, since College Road is a private street. The Mayor suggested that discussions might include adding a brick crosswalk and flashing "yield" signs.

The Mayor also asked Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon to speak to Police Chief Thomas Michaud about having a police car at the location.

Other Auto/Pedestrian Brushes

Could the Princeton pedestrian be headed for identification as an endangered species? In addition to the concern about the Alexander/College Road intersection, and numerous incidents at the Wiggins/Witherspoon crossing, several pedestrians were recently injured by cars elsewhere in the Borough.

On March 10 a pedestrian was hit by a car as she attempted to cross Nassau Street near CVS. The week before, a Princeton University student trying to cross Washington Road at Ivy Lane was struck and seriously injured by a car. Earlier in the same day, a University student was knocked from her bicycle by a car.

Traffic Stop Leads To Arrest of Driver

Township police arrested a Witherspoon Street man for driving without a license on Thursday. Police charged 22-year-old José Orellano after a random check of the license plate on the 1984 Toyota he was driving revealed that it was not registered.

Mr. Orellano, it turned out, was not the owner of the car. The owner, Gilberto Santiago, whose age and address were not released by police, was found to be wanted by the police in New Brunswick.

Mr. Orellano was released on $250 bail, pending a court appearance.

Borough Police reported that four credit cards were stolen from a jacket left hanging in a Nassau Street office between 11 p.m. on March 27 and 4:30 p.m., April 1.

In an interesting twist on this story, a woman called the victim's Lawrenceville home on April 1 and, speaking to his wife, identified herself as the mother of a 17-year-old South Brunswick youth. She told her that she had found the credit cards in her son's possession, and would see that they were returned to the victim. She also promised to call the Borough police, which she did.

Juvenile delinquency charges were filed against the boy, and the matter is being handled by the Borough's juvenile officer.

Shoplifter Arrested

Police arrested a 16-year-old for shoplifting on Wednesday, charging that he stole compact discs from two Nassau Street music stores.

A clerk in one of the stores called police Wednesday evening, reporting that between 7:30 and 7:50 p.m. she had seen the subject approach a rack of compact discs in the store. When he

Branch and Brush Pick-up Announced For Township and Borough Districts

The Public Works Departments of both the Borough and the Township have scheduled extra pick-ups to help residents dispose of the branches that were felled in the snowstorm a week ago Monday.

In the Township, Public Works crews will devote the month of April to a special pick-up of brush, twigs and branches. Leaves will not be picked up at this time. The branches should be placed at the curb, not in the street, in bundles no larger than four feet in length, one foot in diameter.

After the crews complete a sweep through all sections of the Township, the regular schedule of pick-up in the third week of each month will be resumed and will continue until October or November, when leaf pick-up will begin.

In the Borough, Public Works spent this past Monday going through the section of the Borough east of Witherspoon Street and will spend this coming Monday, April 14, concentrating on the area west of Witherspoon Street. Unlike the Township, Borough residents may put out leaves for pick-up, but the leaves should be in open bags or containers and not mixed with the branches and twigs. Leaves are picked up and disposed of in a separate operation from that for brush.

Aware that there is a lot of material at the curbs, Sean Burns, assistant Borough engineer, asks that residents be patient. After these two special Monday pick-ups, the regular brush and leaf or garden debris pick-up in the Borough will take place every other Monday to the end of August.

moved away from the rack, she claimed, a "distinctive" CD was missing. The suspect than left the store.

Provided with a description, the police located the suspect near the intersection of Wiggins and Witherspoon streets. An officer spotted some CD's protruding from a pocket in the suspect's clothing, and placed him under arrest.

A search revealed that he was in possession of a number of CD's, some of which had been stolen from a second store. He was charged with two counts of juvenile delinquency and released to his family pending action by the juvenile officer.

In an act of criminal mischief, someone broke two windows on the right side of a 1989 GMC van as it sat parked on John Street. The crime occurred between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. on April 4. No estimated value of the broken windows was available.

A woman shopping in a Nassau Street clothing store reported that she put down her purse while in the store at approximately 12:15 p.m. Saturday and returned to find it missing.

The purse contained $500 in cash and $3,700 worth of jewelry. There are no suspects.

at approximately 11:50 p.m. Police said that although some women were showering at the time, the man was hiding in a spot that did not allow him to see any of them. The undergraduate confronted him and he fled.

A brief description lists the suspect as a white male in his mid-to-late 30's. He is between 5'7 and 5'9, of thin build, with shoulder-length black hair and glasses.

In Township court this week, Roland Glover, of 34 Red Oak Row, was assessed $705 in court costs and fines for disorderly conduct.

In the Borough, Ever Carias, 7 Lytle Street, was assessed a total of $550 in fines and costs, and had her driver's license revoked for six months for driving a vehicle without proper lights, displaying another person's driver's license, and driving without a license.

Cornelio Gonzales of 125 John Street was assessed $255 in fines and costs for simple assault.

Illegal Pumps Target Of Ordinance Revision

A report on the control of illegal sump pumps and other drains was discussed at Township Committee's Monday meeting.

Donald W. Mayer-Brown, Manager of Princeton Sewer Operating Committee, explained the SOC's recommended revisions of the water and sewer ordinances dealing with sump pumps, in particular to assist in reducing the potential for illegal sump pump connections to the sanitary sewer.

"Illegal connections of sump pumps, roof drains and area drains can markedly increase the amount of ground water and storm water that enters the sanitary sewer system, and drastically increase the cost of treatment to the municipalities," stated Mr. Mayer-Brown in his report.

"One of the primary changes to the ordinance is a requirement for property owners to submit a certificate of sump pump compliance on transfer of title of any property containing a building," he added. "Furthermore, the property owner must then redirect the discharge from the sump pump to a place that will not create a nuisance for neighboring property owners or the traveling public."

J.B. Smith, Princeton Sewer Operating Committee Chairman, also at the meeting, added that property owners could give an affidavit that sump pump compliance had been met, and have it notarized, when they wished to sell their house.

Mr. Mayer-Brown said real estate agencies would also be given advance notice of these new stipulations.

Henry Frank of Valley Road, who was in the audience, asked whether too much was being made of this situation. "Can't you just go around the house to see where the sump pump discharges? It seems to me it's a mountain out of a molehill. What's the big question?"

The potential for serious problems exist when pumps are illegally connected, however, and as Mr. Smith responded, "It's not always that easy. You'd be surprised at some of the things we've seen."

A revised ordinance on the subject will be introduced at Committee's April 28th meeting.

In other business, Mayor Tuck-Ponder announced new appointments to boards and agencies. Kay McGrath, former head of the Mercer County Council on Drugs and Alcohol, will be a full member of the Committee on Aging.

Alyce Bush of Loomis Court will replace Alain Kornhauser on the Princeton Regional Planning Board. Mr. Kornhauser is resigning. Phillip Felg of Filch Way has been appointed to a full term on the Regional Planning Board. Mr. Felg has specific sensitivity to landscaping, said the Mayor.

Bob Rodgers of Laurel Avenue has been appointed to Alternate 2 on the Zoning Board, and Holly Nelson of Leigh Avenue, an alternate on Site Plan Review Advisory Board (SPRAB), has been appointed to full member.

Nine Births Reported At P'ton Medical Center

In the week ending April 3, six girls and three boys were born to area residents at Princeton Medical Center.

Daughters were born to David and Nancy Silvester of Hopewell, John and Maureen Mulhall of Princeton Junction, both on March 31; Jesus and Irene Cortez of Princeton, Keith and Nicole Ripper of Plainsboro, both on April 1; Robert and Theresa Schiksns of Princeton, April 2; and David and Eri Millrod of Lawrenceville, April 3.

Sons were born to Dennis and Donna Gutierrez of Skillman, Frank and Eileen Malvagna of Princeton, both on March 31; and Keat and Danna Tan of Hopewell, April 3.

Aiding Regions in Conflict Topic of Lecture

Frederick Barton, director of USAID's office of Transition Initiatives, will speak on "Making a Difference: Post-Conflict Political Development in Perspective" on Monday, April 14 at 4:30 in Bowl 2, Robertson Hall, Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Mr. Barton is the first director of the Office of Transition Initiatives (OTI), which was established by the U.S. Agency for International Development in 1994 to increase the relevance and impact of foreign aid to countries that have been through a crisis, including Haiti, Bosnia, and Rwanda. Described by Mr. Barton as "fast, flexible, and decentralized," OTI has proved to be an effective catalyst for fundamental political change.

In Haiti, for example, OTI developed more than 2,000 projects, including retraining 5,000 soldiers for civilian professions. In Bosnia, the organization promoted pluralism through civic groups and media outlets.

Mr. Barton had previously been a democracy trainer in Haiti, Poland and Ethiopia, president of the Maine-based management consulting firm of Barton, Gingold, Eaton, and Anderson, and chair of Maine's Democratic Party.

NYC Trip Sponsored By Historical Society

The Historical Society of Princeton is hosting a trip to New York City on April 17 that will highlight architecture and International Cuisine. A guide will take participants on a walking tour of East 42nd Street, followed by lunch at the famous Oyster Bar in Grand Central Station and a tour of the United Nations.

East 42nd Street, starting with Grand Central Station, is a microcosm of some of the best 20th-century architecture in New York, with especially good examples of the Art Deco style. The group will tour the Chrysler, Chanin, and Daily News buildings. It will also view some unusual examples of later 20th-century architecture, including the Mobil Building and the Grand Hyatt Hotel.

The first half of the day will end at Tudor City, the unique and forward-looking "city-within-a-city" of the 1920's.

After lunch, the group will tour the United Nations, with an emphasis on art and architecture. Finally, participants will have a chance to wander through the shops at the U.N., which feature merchandise from all over the world.

The tour, which departs Princeton at 8:30 a.m. and returns at 5 p.m., is open to the public. Participation is limited to 40 people. The cost is $57 for members of the Historical Society and $67 for nonmembers. Call 921-6748 for reservations.

Programs for Children At Public Library

The Children's Room at the Public Library has scheduled two special programs in the coming week.

A creative dramatization of Walter's Magic Wand for 3½- to 5-year-olds will be held Tuesday, April 15, at 1:30. Youth Stages will supply the wands. Registration is required.

Gennady Spirin, distinguished Russian artist and illustrator, will be at the library Wednesday, April 16, at 3:30 in a program for school-age children and adults. Born near Moscow, Mr. Spirin studied at the Stroganov Art Institute of Moscow. Once There was a Tree, by Natalia Romanova, was the first of his books to be published in the United States and was selected as a New York Times notable book.

He has illustrated many picture books widely recognized for their excellence. In 1994, Princeton University honored him with a retrospective exhibition at the Leonard L. Milberg Gallery for the Graphic Arts.

Women and Tax System Topic of Campus Talk

Edward J. McCaffrey, professor of law at the University of Southern California and the California Institute of Technology, will give a lecture entitled "Taxing Women" Tuesday, April 15, at 4:30, in Dodds Auditorium, Robertson Hall. Former Congresswoman and current Woodrow Wilson School professor Patricia Schroeder will introduce him.

Mr. McCaffrey's talk is based on his forthcoming book, Toxing Women, which is scheduled to be released in May. The book offers a critical analysis of the gender biases in the current tax system, a system that was designed over the period from the 1930s to the '50s, "when the traditional family was dominant."

He demonstrates using real-life examples how working wives are penalized by the tax laws — how the joint-filing system prescribes that women work at a high tax rate dictated by their husband's salary, how wives actually lose money by working, and why part-time work is frequently not an option for married mothers.

Finally, Mr. McCaffrey offers grim examples of how the bias "translates into unstable families among the lower income classes, where the need for two incomes is strong; stress among middle-class wives; and strong pressures on upper-class mothers to follow the traditional route and stay home with their children."

Committee on Downtown Plans April 14 Meeting

The Princeton Business Association, a division of the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area, will meet at Borough Hall on Monday, April 14, at 5 p.m. The subcommittee will give further reports and submit action plans.

Balancing Work, Family Discussion Group Topic

The Family Resource Center will sponsor a discussion group entitled "Balancing Work and Family" on Monday, April 14.

Group facilitator, Dr. Judith Klimoff, will lead a discussion and brainstorming session dealing with work issues facing parents who are primary caregivers. Topics include: transition from career person to stay-at-home parent, handling identity issues, part-time work, when and how to re-enter the work force, and working at home.

Dr. Klimoff is a licensed psychologist and executive coach. She is a mother of two and a contributing member of the Family Resource Infant Center. She lives in Princeton.

The discussion group begins at 8 p.m. at the Carnegie Family Center. Non-members are welcome. Refreshments served. Admission is a $3 donation.

FRIC is open weekly Tuesday-Thursday from 9:30 to 12:30. In addition to providing a cooperative, unstructured play space and field trips for children, the Center also provides support for parents and caregivers through guest speakers, discussion groups and workshops. ### Loevner Targeted for Defeat by Certain Faction For Saying Charter School Might Not Be Bad

To the Editor of Town Topics:

From the spate of recent letters to the newspapers, it is clear to me that Cathy Loevner, Borough Candidate for the Princeton School Board, has been targeted for defeat by a certain faction in town. What did she do? Made a passing comment to the effect that the Charter School might not be all bad for Princeton.

I believe that these letters, disputing her right to hold and express an opinion, are only a subterfuge, an excuse for attacking her. Has she been attacked on her record of community service — a dedicated member of the Community Park School PTO and a hardworking president of the Johnson Park PTO? No.

I believe that negative letters about Ms. Loevaer, centered around a single comment, are carefully disguised to divert attention from the substance of her record which includes, in addition to her long service to our schools, work for the League of Women Voters as well as many other achievements. They are also intended to divert attention from Cathy's excellent campaign platform:

- to raise expectations for all students by putting in place "a more rigorous curriculum and to insure that it is being taught uniformly throughout the district";

- to end the strife and bickering constantly distracting the board;

- and to focus School Board attention and time on critical issues rather than on micro-management of issues that can best be addressed by teachers and administrators.

In my opinion, the anti-Cathy Loevner campaign is typical of the level of discussion we have had to endure in recent years about school issues where some small issue is used to distract our attention from facts, from goals, and from achievement in Princeton. In addition, tearing down an individual's character and reputation has become an emotional substitute for reasonable discourse.

Vote for Cathy Loevner: three children in the public schools, a conciliator on boards who listens to people and gets the work moving forward. Cathy is a leadership candidate who will help stop the endless strife which distracts the school board from facing problems and issues in a straightforward, reasonable manner.

Bill Sword Wants a School Board With Set Agenda & Orderly Meetings

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Only rarely does a candidate of the exceptional quality of Bill Sword, running for the School Board in Princeton Township, appear. I have known Bill most of my life and he is an optimistic, outspoken individual with a wide range of outstanding talents. While it would take too much space to enumerate all of these here, I would like to point out a few so that Princeton Township voters can see why it is important for all of us to vote for Bill Sword.

First and foremost, Bill knows that no one can conduct business in a divisive atmosphere. School board meetings in the past several years have become more and more chaotic, complete with name-calling, shouting, and long discourses leading members off the subject at hand. They last well into the night and do not, in my opinion, get enough concrete work done.

As an experienced manager and board member (currently on 12 boards from the Mercer County YMCA to the superbly-run Princeton Young Achievers organization), Bill is calling for orderly meetings and a set agenda, giving members a chance to get things done and the public an opportunity for constructive input.

Second, we Princetonians pay around 40% of each tax dollar towards the schools and no one wants to see that rise significantly. Bill is an experienced money manager, well able to help us prepare for teacher's union negotiations coming up next year as well as looking into the question of deferred maintenance of our school properties. He was appointed as a member of the New Jersey Health Care Facilities Financing Authority by Governor Kean and if he can work on a broad and sticky issue such as that, he can surely make a strong contribution to what we might call the Princeton School Financing Quagmire. Bill has served as a member of the United States Olympic Investment Committee and is a Director of United Penn Bank and the GAF Corporation in addition to a professional life in investing which has included serving as Managing Director of Morgan Stanley, Inc.

Finally, we need candidates who understand schools, education, and finance backwards and forwards. Bill Sword has served as a trustee for The Hun School, Wilkes College, Wabash College, The American Boy Choir School, and others, and also has a host of grandchildren in the Princeton Public School system.

I urge all voters, including those without children in the school system but who have a stake in our town's financing systems, to vote for Bill Sword on April 15.

Voters Who Want Rigorous School Standards Should Choose Hayes, Loevner and Sword

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This year, voters have a real choice in the school board elections. What is at stake is the philosophy that will govern our schools and, with it, the possible success or failure of our students.

All the candidates have impressive backgrounds. All are committed people who want to serve the community. But they are not all alike. The candidates have made their positions clear in their letters to the papers and in their statements in debates.

Bucky Hayes, Cathy Loevner, and Bill Sword stand for accountability and rigor. They believe that schools are most effective when there are standards and when there are expectations of clear outcomes. They believe that a strong administration, including talented curriculum supervisors who can work with teachers to strengthen curricula, are the key to successful schools. And they believe that the role of a school board is to support the administration it puts in place and to avoid excessive meddling in the minutiae of the school affairs.

The two other candidates, Therese Flaherty and Jack Marrero, have a different philosophy, one that they describe as inclusive but that is nothing different from the dominant philosophy in this district for years. Jack Marrero has said that the most important goal of the district should be "improving the morale of the faculty." Therese Flaherty has said that "our biggest challenge is to get the district, teachers, parents to cooperate." They indicate that concerns about curricula, standards, and outcomes can stifle innovation and that administrators and supervisors should play a supportive role at best.

We favor Bill Sword, Cathy Loevner and Bucky Hayes. It has been shown over and over again that the most successful schools are the ones that have a strong educational philosophy and that demand clearly stated performances from teachers and students. This has nothing to do with a lack of confidence in our excellent teachers but more to do with an insistence on accountability, as it occurs in the real world in every walk of life.

Those who share a desire for accountability, supervision and clear outcomes and those who wish the school board would stop micromanaging and engaging in endless and unproductive meetings owe it to themselves to vote, and to vote for the candidates who have made it their mission to support these goals.

Applicant for Civil Rights Director Was Not Even Granted an Interview

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last fall, in this newspaper, I briefly stated that I was interested in becoming Princeton's Civil Rights Director. The only reason why I went public at that time was because I was snubbed by the Borough, which hired the Reverend Michael Nabors in the position part-time without even acknowledging receipt of my cover letter and resumé. And please note that I had even offered to consider taking the position part-time.

Last week I learned that Rev. Nabors had been awarded the position full-time, even though he's admittedly trying to land a job as a pastor in a big city. Once again Princeton failed to offer me even an interview.

As the African-American attorney with the most seniority in Princeton, here since 1978, it is astounding and curious that Princeton would blatantly dismiss someone with my eagerness and credentials (JD plus degrees from three different Ivy League schools) and at the same time thrust the position on someone who openly admits he doesn't want the job, suggesting that Civil Rights issues are more appropriately the province of ministers than of lawyers.

Something's rotten in the state of Denmark. What do I have to do, draw you a picture? Princeton has not been fair in its selection process. I was denied any opportunity to articulate my vision and ideas. Here I was applying for the Civil Rights position and my Civil Rights were violated.

While I can no longer deceive myself into thinking I was ever really being considered for the position, I can speculate as to why this was the case. And I plan to do so publicly. Fortunately, the Princeton Ethical Humanist Fellowship has offered me an opportunity to speak this Sunday, April 13th, at 10:45 a.m. at the Theological Seminary's Mackay Campus Center (call Dick Relhardt at 924-6492 for information). At that time I will give a talk entitled "The Legality of Racism" where I will expose Princeton's need for a strong Civil Rights Director against the backdrop of an historical look at racism in this country.

KEN WILLIAMS
Quaker Road

Editor's Note: The Rev. Nabors' appointment is as a consultant through the end of 1997, when Borough Council and Township Committee will decide whether to maintain a full-time civil rights director position. There is no legal requirement that the appointment of a consultant be handled through the standard employment process, said Borough Administrator Thomas Shonnon. Such a process would be required for a permanent employee and would be followed.

Township Candidate for School Board Is Strongly Opposed to Charter School

To the Editor of the Town Topics:

"Where do you stand on the Charter School?" That is the recurring question I have been asked since becoming a candidate for the Township seat on the Board of the Princeton's regional schools. I shall explain my position and share my concerns.

You may recall that the current school board voted on the Charter School application with a 5-4 majority vote. If I were asked to vote on the same question I would have to vote no, for the following reasons:

1. Financial Impact: It is clear to me, and to anyone following this issue, that the advent of the Charter School begins the path of transferring increasingly larger funds from the existing Princeton Regional schools to the Charter School. It begins next school year, when $505,000 plus costs of transportation will be drained from our school budget. The process, as the Charter School grows, will cause the local schools to lose, and continue to lose on an on-going basis, multi-millions of precious dollars formerly meant for the current school programs. Taxpayers have no say in the matter. Voting down the budget will not register a protest against the Charter School. This school will get its state mandated funding, based on "90% or more of (our) cost per pupil" regardless of the outcome of the vote. The school board continues to remain responsible for the myriad of fixed costs for the operation (and building) of the infrastructure, service expenses and education, whether or not a number of children depart to the Charter School.

2. Governance: The local school board is accountable to the taxpayers. Members are elected in a public process. As representatives of the parents and taxpayers, the board puts the annual budget up for public vote each year. The self-appointed Charter School trustees are accountable only to themselves, and they alone determine how they will use our taxpayers' dollars, only reporting to certain bureaucrats in Trenton — who do not pay the bill. The local school district must follow state mandates while the Charter School can receive all kinds of waivers on almost anything; thus, it does not have to comply with costly mandates. Our district schools are required to follow guidelines on everything from educational, hiring and spending practices to building codes.

3. Education: The over-emphasis on strict uniformity and standardization by the Charter School, and their proponents, is not compatible with a broad program suitable for a diverse and forward-thinking population such as Princeton's. There is no one who would disagree that we need an excellent curriculum. However, the school program must be developed by those who understand that we are living in a rapidly changing information age where we must prepare our children for the future, by providing them with the skills and know-how that they will need to function and compete in the next century. The proponents of the Charter School disparage our public schools, oftentimes most unfairly, while suggesting that we adopt the program of the Charter School. It has yet to be proven that their emphasis on rote-learning of the rigid, finite set of "facts" also known as THE "core knowledge" (perpetuated by Bill Bennett, Dan Quayle, and the Hudson Institute) will have any possibility of producing enthusiastic lifelong learners, critical thinkers, and creative problem-solvers that we value here in Princeton.

Outrageous That Board Candidates Refused to Attend a Public Forum

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week I received a reminder regarding the School Board Candidates Night on April 7 at John Witherspoon Middle School. This forum, presented by the Princeton Regional School's Special Education PTO, is open to everyone and was scheduled almost a full year in advance. The notice was printed in the PRS Academic Calendar that was distributed last September, as well as in many other notices that have gone out during this school year. Typically this well-scheduled event has commanded 100% participation from the board candidates. This year is another story, three of the five candidates have declined — Catherine Parks Loevner (Borough), Bucky Hayes (Borough) and William W. Sword, Sr. (Township).

By all outward appearances, these school board candidates are ignoring a segment of the school population that is in the most need of support, understanding and commitment. From their campaign rhetoric they appear to have private agendas that far outweigh their equanimity and balance of purpose.

As if to add insult to injury, on the same day that I received the PRS Special Education PTO reminder, I received an invitation to a private party for Catherine Parks Loevner and Bucky Hayes.

I find this outrageous! It is apparent these two candidates feel political schmoozing and glad-handing is far more important to them than meeting with and God forbid — responding to a segment of the general public they profess to want to represent!

I have since learned that Ms. Loevner and Mr. Hayes refused to attend the Candidates Night because they feel that the Special Education PTO is a "special interest group." More insults!

As far as I can see Therese Flaherty is the only Borough candidate and will get my vote.

Washington Road Residents Want to Share Some of Fisher Place's Peace and Serenity

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having just read the April 2 edition of TOWN TOPICS, I came across a letter from Mr. Frank M. Updike of lower Fisher Place (cul de sac).

Once again a resident of the beautifully serene lower Fisher Place is siding with the residents of Harrison Street, Princeton, who wish to inundate Washington Road Penns Neck residents with another 25-30 years of noise, pollution, traffic jams, garbage and sleepless nights.

After reading Mr. Updike's letter I decided to take a ride in my silver high-top van down lower Fisher Place and lo-and-behold who should be walking with four or five of his neighbors but Mr. Updike, with three or four dogs in tow plus a couple of children on bikes. The best part of this scenario was that they were walking in the middle of the road. As I approached them they scattered to the side of the road and looked at me quite indignantly.

The encroachment on their road was obviously not appreciated by them.

May I suggest that Mr. Updike and his supporters share a little of the peace and serenity that he enjoys with the residents of Washington Road, Penns Neck.

One way to do that is to stay quiet, in your little piece of heaven and give us an opportunity to share that peacefulness.

Quality in Education Should Be Board of Education's Top Priority

To The Editor of Town Topics:

Readers should know that a major opportunity will occur on April 15 to reinstate excellence in our schools and ensure a quality education for this community's children. Long-time community resident and supporter Bill Sword — to our great delight — and we can elect him on April 15 between 4 and 9 p.m. simply by stopping by our local elementary schools to vote him into office.

There is a mounting level of dissatisfaction with our schools, as evidenced by the charter school movement and increasing interest by parents in alternative formal education for their children. These people want something better for their children. It would be ironic if a community that supports the best undergraduate education in the U.S., the best institution dedicated to scholars (the IAS), the best seminary, a center for theological inquiry, and lots of other exciting and advanced educational initiatives can't run an outstanding public school system. Clearly we have the materials to do so. What is missing is the leadership to make it happen, and this fault lies clearly with the school board.

Bill is running for office to remedy this unfortunate situation and to give us the kind of schools we deserve and can so readily have, if we take the few minutes out of our day to elect the concerned, wise goal-oriented leadership that Bill Sword can provide for our children's schools.

Candidate Has Proven Experience in Areas Needed by a Successful Board of Education

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing to tell your readers in Princeton why I think that Jack Marrero would be an excellent member of the Board of the Princeton Regional Schools. While several candidates have some experience in education and finance, Jack Marrero's experience and record of conciliation deserve special notice.

For most of his professional life, Jack has held positions of leadership in organizations that are dedicated to unifying people with diverse opinions and backgrounds. These include a 25-year term as executive director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and as chairman of the finance committee of the New Jersey Board of State Colleges and Universities. He was the honorary chair of the 1996 Unity Week which was sponsored by the Princeton Task Force on Ethics. His philosophy has always stressed unity, careful consideration of all the interests involved and a devotion to advancing the common good. Could you expect anything less from a man who has been the Director of the Teacher Exchange Program between the New York City Board of Education and Puerto Rico? How better could a person represent the interests of the school administration?

He has earned a B.S. in Business Administration but tempered his education with an M.A. in the field of Human Relations at New York University. He has taught American History, Sociology and Spanish in Puerto Rico. How better could a person represent the interests of the teachers? His daughter has attended the Princeton Regional Schools since kindergarten and will be a freshman at PHS next year. How better could a person represent the interests of the students?

He has called for bringing the so-called "factions" together by stressing the need for cooperation between the various interests mentioned above as well as the funding base, the taxpayers of Princeton. Directing a charitable organization, as he did for many years, keeps him acutely aware of the needs of those who contribute financially, deliver services, and receive services. In short, Jack Marrero has proven experience in all the areas needed by a successful Board of Education. It is for that reason that we urge your readers to vote for Jack Marrero on April 15th.

Voting Against Regional School Budget Will Not Deny Funds to Charter School

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The PTO Council is the umbrella group of all district PTOs in Princeton. As parents who have been very active in the school system, we would like to make two points to your readers.

The first message concerns a misperception among some members of the public. Evidently it is thought that a vote against the budget would deny funds to the Princeton Charter School. This is not true. The Princeton Charter School will receive its designated funds whether or not the total budget is passed. There is no ambiguity about this in the State law.

Secondly, we urge every citizen to vote in this important election. Traditionally, less than 20% of the eligible voters get to the polls. We would like to remind you that these are your tax dollars, and your policy makers to choose. Please take the time next Tuesday to have your say.

VOTE TUESDAY ~ APRIL 15 ~ PRINCETON TOWNSHIP ~ 4 to 9 P.M.

Paid for by Committee to elect JACK MARRERO, Selma Goldstein, Treas. 207 Edgerstoune Road.

One Borough and One Township Candidate Have Qualifications for School Board Seats

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a parent of two children currently enrolled at Community Park School, I am constantly impressed and pleased with what I see as a healthy concern for the education of children here in Princeton. I see this evidenced by a loyal and strong volunteer effort by many at Community Park School. I see this evidenced by the passionate letter writing in the local papers, regarding issues surrounding our schools. I hear and feel it from fellow parents as we discuss our children's education and anything related to it. I understand that we all do not share the same philosophy. I have found that we not only differ on what should be taught, but that we can be poles apart as to exactly how our children should be taught.

It is important to me that we all realize that even if we form groups or relationships with those aligned to one side of an issue or another, that we do not refuse to cooperate with each other. I believe we are all doing what we think is best for our children and that we should take stands on issues and pursue our ideals. I believe that Princeton Charter School is such a pursuit. It is a realization of one group's ideas of what education should be and how it should be accomplished.

I believe that Princeton Regional Schools' pursuit should be different. As Princeton Charter has declared its own mission, I believe that we should elect board members who will implement the Princeton Regional mission.

As outlined in the Princeton Regional Schools Core Mission Statement, that mission is "to prepare each student to thrive as a self-confident adult in a rapidly changing and competitive future." In terms of accomplishing this goal, the mission statement reads "(to) provide each student with a strong knowledge base as a foundation for competence." Other points mention enabling each student "to become a life-long learner"; developing positive identities as unique individuals; understanding "common ground shared by people from diverse backgrounds in order to promote mutual respect and cooperation"; and "responsibility to self, family, and community."

I believe that such a mission statement promotes the idea that at Princeton Regional Schools, good teaching should be a top priority. That teachers should be supported and nourished. That they should be allowed to perform at their utmost ability. That they should be engaged by their supervisors to contribute, advise and experiment. That they should be allowed to grow from their present day experiences, so that they can grow with the times.

I believe that such a mission statement, thoroughly enacted, will allow all of our children to become more creative thinkers; to become better problem solvers; to deal with an ever more demanding and complex environment. I believe that by learning through experience, integration, and evaluation, students will learn with a deeper understanding. They will, in effect, learn how to learn and grow.

I believe that this mission statement concerns itself primarily with the future of our children and with our own futures. Investing in our children's future ensures that our future leaders will create a society that will be responsible and responsive to everyone.

If you are concerned with your children's future, vote for someone who will act on that concern. Vote for someone with the experience and qualifications to fulfill that core mission. Someone who will work with others on the school board. Vote for Jack Marrero in the Township. Vote for Therese Flaherty in the Borough.

It is critical that you vote only for Therese Flaherty in the Borough to insure that she has enough votes to overcome the others.

Borough Residents Urged to Vote For Bucky Hayes for School Board

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We would like to emphasize how fortunate the Princeton community is to have Bucky Hayes running for school board. Having known Bucky, his wife, Linda, and their four school-age children very well for over 16 years, we want others to know what a truly outstanding candidate he is.

Bucky has had 25 years of private sector experience in finance and general management. He is a Harvard graduate with an M.S. from the New York University Graduate School of Business Administration. He is particularly well qualified to assist the board in its financial oversight function. Since a large bond issue is under discussion, financial leadership on the board is critical.

In addition, Bucky is a unique blend of integrity, intelligence, sensitivity, and abundant humor and energy. His appeal to children is universal. Kids just love him. Anyone who has observed Bucky coaching soccer (which he has done for many years) knows instantly he is a person who really understands and cares about kids. Bucky says modestly that the kids do it all, but he establishes a wonderfully positive climate among the children where hard work, camaraderie, and great success naturally seem to follow. We believe that Bucky will have a similarly positive influence on the board. He is a pragmatic thinker with a strong ability to find creative solutions and build consensus.

In short, Bucky is an immensely talented person, he loves kids, and he is committed to education and the Princeton school system. We are so fortunate to have someone with his capabilities running for this office, and we urge everyone in the Borough to go to the polls on April 15 to ensure that Bucky Hayes is elected to the Princeton School Board.

Bill Sword Intelligent, Energetic Candidate With Clear Vision of Need for Good Schools

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I fully support the candidacy of William Sword for membership on the Princeton Regional School Board. We are lucky that he is willing to serve.

Bill Sword is a much admired friend of long standing. He has been a leading member of this community with a host of friends on whose support on school issues he and we can count. He is intelligent, energetic, and has a clear vision of the need for the good schools that Princeton needs and deserves.

As a former member of the Township School Board and father of five graduates, I would feel secure if a sixth child followed in their footsteps with Bill Sword as a board member.

Marrero's Experience & Ability Will Provide Measured, Thoughtful Voice on School Board

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I write in support of Jack Marrero's candidacy for a Township seat on the Board of the Princeton Regional School. Jack is a dedicated educator who not only has taught both at the secondary and higher education levels in Puerto Rico, New York City and New Jersey, but also is involved intimately for long periods at policy, financial, senior executive and trustee levels with various faith, medical, and higher educational institutions throughout the Northeastern Region.

I have had the pleasure of working with Jack for the past three years as a fellow board member of the Princeton Task Force on Ethics, a citizens' organization which works with Princeton's faith, educational, government and commercial institutions to highlight and encourage common bonds among Princetonians of various faith, ethnic, racial and cultural backgrounds.

I have come to respect Jack's integrity and high sense of value and humanity, and to appreciate his consultative, inclusive and open leadership style. He is tireless, imaginative, and highly dedicated in promoting common interest and common good for this community.

If elected, Jack's wealth of experiences and his innate ability will provide a measured, thoughtful and experienced voice to the Board. I wish the School Board well.

Bill Sword Will Be Wonderful Advocate For Our Children on the School Board

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I urge Town citizens to vote for Bill Sword for School Board at your local public elementary school on April 15th between 4 and 9 p.m. Don't miss this opportunity to elect a wonderful advocate for our children and their education.

Bill will speak out for excellence in our schools, and also for good management by the school board. He knows the territory, having sent his four children to the public schools here, and having gotten to know our school administrators and teachers and having attended board meetings.

Perhaps you, like me, have had your attention drawn to actions of the school board that don't seem to make sense — for example, a seven-hour-long meeting at which the Board tries to micromanage specific school activities, rather than focusing on school goals and the policies needed to achieve them, which is of course the proper function of a school board.

Let's put good sense and good leadership back in the school board. I urge you to support Bill Sword. To have met Bill is to know that we have a strong advocate here for a great future for our children and our community.

It Should Be a Top Priority for All Pupils To Learn to Read Well in Elementary School

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We all so often say that in Princeton, if anywhere in the United States, we should be able to deal with the challenges of educating all our diverse children. And over the years we have started many programs to help the minority students who have not fared as well in our school system as their parents and teachers think they should. Nevertheless, the data on African-American students in special education classes and high school math that are not preparing them for college suggests that we have been applying bandaids to a challenge that requires a more serious approach.

I certainly do not have any simple answers to this challenge. But during my run for the school board I have spoken with two elementary school principals who say that many students — not all Latino and African-American, and many of these students excel in our schools — fall behind early in kindergarten and first grade when they fail to learn to read well. When I asked whether they thought they and their teachers would be able to teach all their elementary students to read if they had the resources and the time, they both said emphatically yes.

One explained that a teacher with 20 or more students would be able to give more individual attention if they had an aide. Another said that helping all students to read well in school might mean getting volunteer mentors from the community for each child and that working with so many mentors might require hiring a person to coordinate communication with families, mentors and school. Both said that they would need to have clear priorities so that they would have clear and no conflicting goals.

For me two observations about these conversations are especially noteworthy. First, the first suggestions about what would be needed to accomplish this most important task are not very expensive. Second, volunteer programs are important and essential to these programs because community volunteers provide important value in themselves, not just because they require little in expenditure. Third, I expect that if we could really teach each child to read well in early elementary school then the problems of behavior and attention in school later on would be lessened: this would probably make enormous financial sense as well as moral sense.

The Board can decide to make it a top priority that all students in the Regional Schools read well during elementary school. If it does so decide, then in its policy-making role, the board can direct the central administration to involve building administrators and teachers in defining goals and in devising approaches to ensure that all children read. In its oversight role — ensuring that the school program supports the Board's policy goals — the Board can ensure that staff members are not burdened by too many priorities and then provide resources to carry out their program.

Town Lucky to Have Two Fine Candidates For School Board: Flaherty and Marrero

Are you voting on April 15? You should! This year we are very fortunate to have two superbly qualified candidates for the Princeton school board. Their backgrounds are exactly what is needed: impressive experience in financial management and impeccable experience in education and volunteerism. Their agenda is excellence for all the children and strict financial accountability, necessary to make it attainable.

Jack will hit the ground running! Jack Marrero for the Township seat will bring valuable leadership skills to our Board of education. As Chairman of Kean College Board of Trustees Jack has four years experience serving on a board requiring similar skills and responsibilities as our own Princeton Board of Education, namely policy development, curriculum approval, budgetary oversight, personnel and negotiations management. When Governor Whitman replaced the Department of Higher Education with the NJ State College Governing Board, Jack was appointed and is now its vice chairman.

As Executive Director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, (for 25 years) Jack has dealt with difficult community dead-locks and has been able to bring people together, often in almost impossible situations. He serves as a valuable trustee of the Beth Israel Medical Center, presently leading in their merger with another large New York hospital. He has been responsible for reviewing and evaluating nonprofit budgets as high as $650 million.

He is very proud of his membership on the Princeton Task Force on Ethics. What's more, as a parent of a daughter who has gone through our schools and is now an eighth grader, he will soon be a Princeton high school parent. Jack is a strong advocate of public schools. He will be a leader and valuable problem solver on the Princeton Board.

Therese Flaherty has been teaching economics and management at Stanford, Harvard Business School and is currently at the Wharton School. As an economist, she specializes in operations management and business strategy, bringing the valuable skills we need now. She understands what it takes to develop accountability in management and business. As a member of its advisory board, Therese is proud to have been involved in fund raising for the Princeton Young Achievers. Her children have been through the Princeton schools and are currently in the high school and middle school. She knows our district and is in touch with its needs.

She is someone who recognizes and values good teaching and considers herself a teacher above all. Therese values public education and is a strong advocate of children. Her approach is one of thoughtful and thorough consideration of problems. She believes that we can all work together for the common good. As a board member, Therese's only agenda is to achieve a quality education for all our children within the bounds of our public schools.

So let's celebrate our good luck — Therese Flaherty in the Borough and Jack Marrero in the Township. With these two fine people on the Princeton Board how can we go wrong? I will vote on April 15, I hope you will join me.

Cathy Loevner Will Work Tirelessly on Board To Urge Adoption of Ambitious Curriculum

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Cathy Loevner is a highly qualified candidate for a Borough Seat on the Princeton Regional School Board. I should know! I have known and worked with Cathy for the past 14 years that we have both lived in Princeton. She is and has been a committed and dedicated volunteer in many of Princeton community and school organizations, such as the PTO Boards of Community Park, Johnson Park and John Witherpoon Schools, the Hospital Fete, the League of Women Voters and HiTops.

With three young children attending the district schools, she has a real vested interest in an excellent school system. As a Board member, I know that she will work tirelessly to raise student achievement of all students by urging the adoption of a more ambitious curriculum. Having worked in many of the district's schools in a day-to-day "hands-on" way, she knows that the Board must address the real issue of inadequate and outdated physical plant of our schools.

Cathy's professional experience in the legislative branches of various state and national governments will help the Board discourage micro management of our school district (after all, that's why we pay administrators) and focus on those issues which will help all Princeton students strive for their best.

Will There Be Further Renewal Fees To Keep Institute Woods Protected?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

TOWN TOPICS for Wednesday, April 2, says the Institute Woods will be permanently protected. Indeed there is a Green acres sign to that effect at the most formal entrance to the woods behind Fuld Hall. It says "This site dedicated to permanent recreation and open space."

But the sign has been there for years. It appears that the $13 million paid to the Institute was not to purchase permanent protection but to keep existing permanence from lapsing. Will there be further renewal fees?

Increases Expenses & Is DiscriminatoryTo the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton Township Committee has proposed a new law to restrict the time of year gas-powered leaf blowers may be used and the amount of noise they may make. The proposed ordinance is unnecessary, may create scofflaws, will increase residents' expenses, and is discriminatory.

Unnecessary: There are gas-powered leaf blowers now available for sale at nearby stores that comply with the Township's current noise ordinance maximum limits of 65 decibels ("db"). Why stop someone's right to buy equipment that complies with our current ordinance?

There has been only one complaint about excessive noise from gas-powered leaf blowers during the past year. Lt. Davall of Princeton Borough says that he cannot recall any such complaints. Lt. Buchanan of Princeton Township says there was only one complaint during the past 24 months when police stopped the operation of a gas-powered leaf blower because of too much noise.

The Environmental Commission says that it has several hundred signatures on a petition against gas-powered leaf blowers. On examination these do not seem to carry as great a weight as claimed. Over two hundred are signed by out-of-towners and there were several duplicate signatures.

The evidence is not clear that new electric leaf blowers are quieter than new gas ones. A recent test on a new electric blower registered over 70 db. It looks like the gas-powered manufacturers have been working hard to reduce the noise, while the manufacturers of electric blowers have been resting on their laurels. Why try to phase out a type of equipment that is getting quieter?

Increase Residents' Expenses: Extra labor will be required during the blackout periods. Extra labor is expensive. Electric blowers are less convenient. The same size unit takes more time to use than gas-powered just to deal with the electric cord. Clearly costs will go up.It discriminates against many citizens: What are senior citizens and physically impaired people supposed to do? Electric simply doesn't work as well. While able-bodied citizens may be able to cope, is it fair to make physically disadvantaged folks use inferior equipment?

The ordinance as drafted also allows relief to owners of larger tracts of land. Isn't that discrimination?

Summary: This does not seem to be a wise or useful ordinance. Research shows that many leaf blower restrictions have been challenged and overturned in many towns. Do we want to be subject to such lengthy and expensive defenses?

Owners of gasoline powered leaf blowers, please come to the hearing on the proposed ordinance on Monday April 14, at 7 p.m., Township Hall on Witherspoon Street. Our elected officials need to hear from you and to see you at the hearing. If you come and protest, we can defeat this unnecessary ordinance.

HUNT STOCKWELL, Glen Drive
WILLIAM A. FARLEY, Scott LaneDon't Let Opportunity Pass to Lead Schools
Out of Current Non-Productive EnvironmentTo the Editor of Town Topics:

Voters in the Princeton area will have the opportunity on April 15 to create a school board that can lead our schools out of the non-productive environment that has cast a shadow over our excellent educational system during the past few years. Too much time has been spent micro managing, listening to and often participating in what seems to be endless bickering. Not enough time has been dedicated to guiding our school district. Voters should not let this opportunity pass to seek out the most qualified, experienced candidates who can work together to maintain and improve Princeton's outstanding school system.

Cathy Loevner, mother of three children in Princeton Regional Schools, has proven herself capable of working within the current school system. As PTO co-chair at Johnson Park School (1993-95), current vice President of the PTO Council, and parent representative to the Garden State Coalition, Cathy has worked directly in the school system to improve the quality of our educational environment. She is well respected by parents and staff of the public schools her children attend, and within the community through her involvement in HiTops, the League of Women Voters (President '93) and the Hospital Fete Committee.

Cathy has heard from many concerned parents that the primary goal of the Princeton Regional Schools should be "to raise student achievement through more ambitious curriculum." We should also be equally concerned about, and challenge, "state encroachment in local decision making." And anyone who has a child in the middle school should agree that directing "limited resources to necessary renovations of outdated and inadequate facilities" must be a priority of the next school board.

Cathy's impressive professional credentials as Legislative Assistant to New York Governor Hugh Carey and Assistant to Commissioner of the NY State Department of Social Services, along with her tenure as a Professional Staff Member on the U.S. House Select Committee on Population, qualify her as an outstanding candidate for the Princeton Regional School Board. More importantly, she is committed to helping the schools reach and maintain their high potential through her day-to-day involvement.

Cathy Loevner is a strong supporter of Princeton Regional Schools and deserves your vote.

Triumph's Restaurant/Brewpub Becoming a Princeton Tradition

Erica Disch, one of the tremendous undertaking, but owners of Triumph we were so naive and so in love with our idea, that we just charged ahead." After looking at several locations, they decided on the Nassau Street site, and it has proved to be an excellent choice.

Location, Location

It has intrigued a wide range of customers, from serious beer connoisseurs to people who simply enjoy good food and a glass of beer or wine in a relaxed, informal atmosphere.

"In business, it's location, location, location!" smiles Mrs. Disch, and she points out that this one has lots of history, having been home to a silent movie theatre, hardware store, bowling alley, and numerous restaurants.

After the March 1995 opening, the brewpub quickly became a popular place for a variety of customers. "We really appeal to everyone," says Mrs. Disch. "Couples, singles, and families. We have a very kid-friendly menu, and we get lots of children with their families. We also do a lot of private parties, for any size up to 200."

Triumph serves six beers, from light to dark, on tap at any given time, all made on the premises, and diners may eat and drink in an upstairs or downstairs setting that affords a front row view of the three-story stainless steel brewery.

"We offer three flagship brands, two rotating specials, and seasonal beers, such as an Oktoberfest and a spicy holiday ale," explains Mrs. Disch. "We also have a real ale, which is cask-conditioned and served by hand pump. Customer favorites are the light honey wheat, amber ale, and Bengal Gold, an India pale ale, specially brewed for Princeton University's 250th anniversary."

A Different Taste

Customers in the mood for a different taste will find a full bar, including a broad variety of wines by the glass or bottle, and an extensive selection of single malt scotches and single barrel bourbons. And as Mrs. Disch points out, a recent visitor stated emphatically, "It was the best martini I ever had!"

Scotch tastings, and an upcoming bourbon tasting are on the agenda, and the very popular Gambrinus dinner series, named for the patron saint of brewers, is held quarterly. The next date is June 2, and Mrs. Disch advises calling early.

When it comes to eating, whether lunch, dinner, or

CHEERS! "Freshness. It makes all the difference. Our beers are served fresh from the brewery. They are all natural and not treated in any way to compromise their taste." brunch, diners are very enthusiastic about Triumph's food.

"All our food is made to order; we emphasize freshness and quality. Our chef Michael Perselay creates unbelievably sophisticated food."

Popular dishes include the house specialty, fish and chips (fresh cod in special beer batter), butcher block sandwiches, the lunchtime favorite soup and a half sandwich, appetizers, such as stuffed mozzarella with calamata olives, basil and garlic, and the wide array of salads.

For dinner, customers enjoy the chef's steak of the day, carrot and ginger Johnny cakes, and grilled breast of duck, all served in very generous portions. Triumph has also just introduced Saturday and Sunday brunch, offering a variety of delightful temptations, starting at $5.95.

IT'S NEW To Us

In fact, Triumph Brewing Company, New Jersey's original brewpub, is a dream come true for Mrs. Disch and partners, her husband, Ray Disch, and Adam Rechnitz. It is certainly proof of the value of hard work and perseverance. In order to open in 1995, the three partners had to take on the New Jersey legislature, and spearhead a drive to legalize brewpubs, which were then illegal.

"We had to get a restricted brewing license," explains Mrs. Disch. "The state legislature had to pass a law allowing this. We visited each of the members of the Assembly and the Senate who were on the committees relevant to the bill, and it was passed in July 1994."

With backgrounds in sales and marketing and human resources, she and her husband had hoped to start their own business, and the idea of a brewpub appealed to them.

"Ray was in California attending a brewing seminar, when he met Adam," recalls Mrs. Disch. "They were the only two guys from New Jersey. Adam was a certified brewer, and had worked professionally in brewing. We believe that for any business to be a success today, it has to be a passion, and all three of us shared a passion for good beer and food."

Passion was essential, for as she explains, they were lacking in a few necessities!

"When we began, we had no expertise, no location, and no money. It was really a

Yoga, Meditation & Dialogue Offered By Michael Marchese

Yoga is 2000 years old, if not older. "Today it's more popular than ever. Everyone is so stressed, and they're looking for alternatives. Stress is one of the major concerns of my clients, and they also want to be in the best physical condition, which yoga can help them achieve."

Director of the Yoga and Meditation Center of Southern New Jersey, Michael Marchese was certified by the Kripalu Holistic Center, and has been teaching yoga for 15 years. His classes are one-on-one, with couples, or with groups, and he focuses on the Princeton area.

"I currently have a studio in Cherry Hill, but I'll be relocating to Princeton this year," he says. "I like Princeton, everything about it. I really fell in love with it."

Mr. Marchese's clients include men and women from all walks of life and typically between the ages of 30 and 65. He also plans to hold parent and child classes soon.

"If parents are stressed, kids are stressed," he explains. "They are so often pushed to achieve today."

A typical class is an hour and a half, and everyone starts at his or her own level, adds Mr. Marchese.

"Benefits can be just as much for a beginner as for an advanced student. The class begins with a centering, that is, a five-minute quiet time when you lie down and let the day's events slip away. During the time of the class, you are just in the present. You 'just let it be'."

"It can be hard for people to do this," he continues, "but it's really harder not to. If you can't relax, you can have high blood pressure, heart attacks, mental stress, etc."

Following the centering is about one hour of physical postures or positions, which are helpful for relaxation and physical conditioning.

Guided Relaxation

"This is for people who are seriously interested in looking at the problems we have in life by talking with each other, and with no higher authority than themselves," he explains.

"It is freedom from facade, freedom from what we already know, and freedom for us to create together in mutual affection, sincerity, and respect."

Mr. Marchese has guided a number of dialogues as part of the Barnes & Noble book store special events program in Princeton MarketFair. Most recently, a dialogue, "Krishnamurti 101" was held to acknowledge the 101st birthday of the late Indian teacher and author, Krishnamurti.

Way of Thinking

"Krishnamurti taught throughout the world, and established schools in England, India, and California," says Mr. Marchese. "He presented a way of thinking through dialogue that allows us to look at ourselves as we are. It's a chance to look at our lives."

In the recent dialogue, "Why People Seek Authority", Mr. Marchese first showed a video featuring Krishnamurti and the late Dr. David Bohm, former professor of theoretical physics at Princeton University.

This was followed by the 15 dialogue participants joining together and sharing their views and experiences in a non-judgemental way. Some chose to listen, rather than talk, and Mr. Marchese emphasized that silent participation was just as acceptable.

MIND/BODY INQUIRY: "Yoga means union, and when we do physical yoga, we bring together mind, body, and spirituality. Everything is involved." Certified yoga instructor, Michael Marchese teaches students in the Princeton area, and he is also a dialogue facilitator, helping people to address concerns and problems, and communicate in an honest, non-judgemental way.

"Dialogue starts with a willingness to be tentative about what we already know. We focus on what is rather than on our opinion of what is," he explains.

"One value is that we leave knowing a little more about ourselves than before. You and I will learn about the nature of our minds. Self-knowledge is valuable."

Mr. Marchese also points out that in a dialogue no one is trying to win or gain points. "This is shared participation."

It's win-win. Everyone gains." The next Barnes & Noble dialogue will take place in June.

Mr. Marchese, who has also participated in National Dialogues in Washington, D.C., reports that the first annual Princeton Dialogue will be held in August at Rider University. Its focus will be "Freedom From the Self".

For more information on yoga classes or dialogues, call Mr. Marchese at 424-1414.

Princeton Shakespeare Company Promises to Deliver An Enjoyable, Understandable, and Lively "Hamlet"

The great Samuel Johnson opined in an essay written some 230 years ago, "If the dramas of Shakespeare were to be characterized, each by the particular excellence which distinguishes it from the rest, we must allow to the tragedy of Hamlet the praise of variety." He goes on to enumerate many of the riches and diversities of this play, along with the delights and difficulties they pose for readers, audiences and producers — none of which would be news to the ambitious Princeton Shakespeare Company, which is opening its three-night run of Hamlet this Thursday, April 10, in Richardson Auditorium on the Princeton University campus.

Auditorium a Challenge

In addition to tackling what may be Shakespeare's most difficult play, the PSC undergraduate troupe, under the bold direction of Junior Marc Rosen, is also confronting major challenges of performing, for the first time in its three-year history, in the 880-seat Richardson Auditorium, with minimal time for set-up and on-site rehearsals and the problems of a theater designed primarily for concerts.

Undaunted, Mr. Rosen and PSC promise to deliver a Hamlet "that people enjoy and understand ... cutting through the language barrier with lively action and clear direction." At the "Press Preview" last Monday night, as the melancholy Dane proceeded on his circuitous path to vengeance, it was clear that the PSC, in its first rehearsal on the set, had come a long way towards its worthy goal.

Mr. Rosen has made a number of strong, interesting, sometimes surprising, directorial choices, beginning with judicious cutting (from about four hours to about 2½ hours) and some re-arranging of the script, with assistance from Professor Thomas P. Roche. Small and larger chunks are cut throughout the play, but the most striking and controversial alterations place several of Hamlet's soliloquies in the middle of crowded scenes, with the other actors in frozen poses around him.

Other surprises in this production — bound to provoke controversy, puzzlement and perhaps even outrage from purists in the audience — include a ghost of Hamlet's father that first resembles a writhing Greek chorus, then later takes on the mashed shape of the murderous Claudius; omission of the ghostly opening scene on the battlements, replaced by a tableau of the final scene, suggesting perhaps that the whole play is in the telling of this tragic story; and a Horatio who appropriately does not seem to be "passion's slave," but nonetheless does engage in curious unscripted interactions with Ophelia.

Provocative Interpretations

Though the idiosyncrasies of Mr. Rosen's interpretation and the surprises in this production are bound to provoke speculation and debate, much more important must be the questions of whether this production is clear, understandable and enjoyable. The PSC's admirable goal is not to provide "caviar to the general," but to appeal to a wide audience that does not necessarily read or hear very much Shakespeare.

By Monday night the talented ensemble had already partially accomplished that goal, with clear ground to anticipate that the final rehearsals will raise some uneven levels of clarity — in diction and credibility in dialogue and relationships. With the incomparably rich language of Shakespeare, simply understanding the lines can be a major challenge for the actor, and bringing those lines across to an audience can defeat even a seasoned professional. There were a number of occasions during Monday's preview where I did not believe that the characters were really talking to each other, rather than just declaiming their lines, and, for most of the actors, some lines needed either more volume, more diction or more conviction to avoid getting lost in the cavernous Richardson Auditorium.

FRIEND AND CONFIDANT: Performing in Princeton Shakespeare Company's "Hamlet" at Richardson Auditorium, John Smelcer as Hamlet affirms his love for Horatio, played by Tucker Culbertson, as he also tells him about the play-within-the-play meant to trap the king.

Katherine Mackenzie as Ophelia was especially powerful, both in quality of diction and in depth and nuance of character. Her relationships — with brother, father, Hamlet and Gertrude — were convincing, interesting and three-dimensional. Paul Serritella also stood out, as player queen, captain and, in an excellent comic scene, as the first gravedigger.

John McHale's villainous King Claudius was excellent in ruling over his court with crystal clear diction and control, while Eden Heltzman portrayed a fascinatingly complex, highly conflicted Queen Gertrude, poised and regal, though not always clearly audible.

Strong & Articulate Hamlet

Strong and articulate in the title role, John Smelcer, at times on Monday, was still feeling his way through his many hundreds of lines, but often displayed the energy and wide range of emotions that can galvanize this production by opening night.

Other members of this able, high-powered ensemble include Tucker Culbertson as Horatio, Aron Egner as Polonius, Jay Erikson as Marcellus and Fortinbras, Todd Felix as Osric and second gravedigger, Sean Garrett-Roe as Rosencrantz, Dale Ho as Guildenstern, Peter Horn in three different supporting roles, Nick Salvato as Reynaldo and Prologue, James Stanford as Laertes and Ian Hunter Todd as priest and player king.

Matt Grayson has composed an intriguing, mood-setting, original musical score and conducts a seven-piece orchestra

Milbank Concert Features Chapel Choir Orchestra & Soloists

The Princeton University Chapel Choir, under the direction of Penna Rose, will perform Requiem by Maurice Duruflé and Stobot Mater by Polish composer Karol Szymanowski during its annual Milbank Concert Saturday, April 12, at 8 at the Princeton University Chapel.

The works will be accompanied by University principal organist Joan Lippincott and orchestra. Soloists for the Stobot Mater are Clare Muller, soprano, Emily Eyre, mezzo-soprano, and Jack Brown, bass-baritone.

The Requiem, Opus 9, was completed in September 1947 and dedicated to Duruflé's father.

Szymanowski's Stobot Mater was completed in 1926.

Ms. Mueller is a graduate of The Lyric Opera of Chicago's Opera Center. She received her bachelor's degree from Westminster Choir College and her master's from Indiana University.

Ms. Eyre has performed with the Greensboro Symphony and the Brevard Music Center as well as with the Houston Grand Opera. She is a past winner of the Metropolitan Opera Competition for North Carolina.

Mr. Brown has sung numerous oratorios and recitals in the New York area and in New England. He is a native of Philadelphia.

The 70-voice Chapel Choir, under the direction of Penna Rose, is comprised of undergraduates and graduate students from the University with the addition of several faculty members and residents of the Princeton community. ### Solo Dance Works Set For Campus Performance

The Program in Theater and Dance will present choreographer and dancer Amy Pivar in "Creating a Powerful Response" Friday, April 11, at 4 in the Hagan Dance Studio, 185 Nassau Street.

Ms. Pivar will present an informal performance of solo excerpts from her dance/theater works, with discussion about the process of their creation, followed by an open question and answer session.

MUSIC & THEATRE

She will perform "Telling," her solo from Not o Confession, a passionate and powerful response to sexual violence. The piece is being presented in conjunction with the Share Program.

Ms. Pivar will also perform These Women, a 1996 solo which has been performed in New York City at 92nd Street Y and Movement Research at the Judson Church, in Paris at the Maison des Arts de Creteil in an international Festival curated by Bill T. Jones, as well as at several colleges and universities across the country. These Women has been expanded to include an eight-member cast and will have its premiere at the Clark Studio Theater at Lincoln Center April 24 to 27.

"Hamlet"

that plays an integral role in this production. Roeg Sutherland designed the simple, flexible unit set, dominated by two large thrones; Melissa Schapira designed the lighting; and Rachel Gruer designed the costumes, a late 19th-century look in mostly darker earth colors.

With the abundant skills and energy of this group, the focused and dynamic direction of Mr. Rosen, the Bard's wonderful words and the requisite dose of production week magic, Thursday's opening should be an event not to be missed.

Hamlet will run this Thursday through Saturday, April 10 through 12, at 8 p.m. For reservations call Richardson Auditorium at 258-5000. For information about the Shakespeare Company call 258-2255 and dial "S-H-A-K-E-S-P."

Acoustic Guitarist
In Concert at Church

Vocalist and virtuoso acoustic guitarist Beppe Gambetta will return to Princeton Friday, April 18, at Christ Congregation Church, Walnut Lane. His performance, which takes place at 8:15, is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Mr. Gambetta is regarded as one of the world's foremost performers on acoustic flat-picked guitar. His original compositions and arrangements reflect a mosaic of musical influences — from his native Italy to American bluegrass, Celtic, central European, and Mediterranean dance tunes, classical finger style and more.

About five years after his first exposure to American folk music he discovered the guitar music of the legendary Doc Watson, and immediately decided to dedicate himself to learning to play in that style. A few years ago he fulfilled a dream by playing alongside of Mr. Watson at the Merle Watson Memorial Folk Festival.

Mr. Gambetta has played to audiences in concert halls, coffee houses and at folk festivals throughout Europe, and across the United States and Canada. He has been a feature performer on National Public Radio, and serves as artistic director for several European festivals and summer music camps. He has released five albums of recorded music, and is a featured performer on a number of other albums.

Admission is $12 for the general public and $8 for members of the Folk Music Society and affiliated organizations. There are no advance sales.

Woody Guthrie Focus Of Musical Montage At Off-Broadstreet

Woody Guthrie's American Song will open Friday, April 18, at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell for a seven-weekend run.

Woody Guthrie's American Song is a montage of the well-known folk musician's best songs flavored with his writings. Through his songs and words, the show paints a picture of life beginning with the dust bowl era of the 1930's, recounting his experiences as migrant worker, roustabout and hobo and ending with a triumphant rendition of his popular song "This Land Is Your Land." Other Guthrie standards are "Do Re-Mi," "Grand Coulee Dam," "Oklahoma Hills" and "End of My Line."

The show is an ensemble piece featuring five performers plus an onstage combo of musicians. Off-Broadstreet Theatre veteran performers Harris Goodman, Kathy Keith and Tom Orr will be joined by newcomers Bill Monico and Lois Carr.

Bob Thick has guided his cast, weaving the songs and the literary works of Guthrie into a unified piece. He has also designed and built the set for this production. Musical Director Ed McCall has blended the quintet of voices and gathered the folk musicians.

Woody Guthrie's American Song had its world premiere at the American Stage Festival in Milford, N.H. in 1988. It has since been performed throughout the United States. The show was at the Northlight Theater in Chicago where it became a 1990-91 Joseph Jefferson Award winner for Chicago productions. The piece is adapted by Peter Glazer with musical arrangements by Jeff Waxman.

An excursion to Off-Broadstreet features a buffet of dessert and fruit with coffee and tea served at one's table in addition to the show.

Friday and Saturday evenings doors open at 7 for dessert with curtain at 8. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30 with curtain at 2:30. Admission Friday and Sunday is $18.50, Saturday is $20. There is a senior citizen discount for Sunday matinees. All prices include dessert and show.

For reservations contact the theater at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, 466-2766. The show runs through Saturday, May 31.

P.U. Glee Club Due to Perform Haydn's "Creation"

The Princeton University Glee Club and The Concerto Soloists Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia, conducted by Richard Tang Yuk, will present Haydn's Creation Saturday, April 19, at 8 in Richardson Auditorium, Alexander Hall. Guest soloists include Sarah Pelletier, soprano; Frederick Urrey, tenor; and William Parcher, bass-baritone. The Princeton University Glee Club is the oldest singing group in existence at Princeton.

Founded in 1874 by Andrew Flemming, the Glee Club quickly became a prominent performing organization on the Princeton campus. Becoming a mixed-voice ensemble in 1970, the Glee Club has since presented such famous choral works as St. Matthew Passion and Mozart Requiem, and more recently Stravinsky's Oedipus Rex and Symphony of Psalms.

Additionally, Glee Club has become an international organization, giving concerts all over Europe and Asia. This summer, the Glee Club will perform in several Eastern European cities, including Prague, Budapest, and Vienna.

The oratorio The Creation was written in 1797-1798, at the height of Haydn's career. Personally conducted by the composer, The Creation quickly acquired international fame after the first performance in 1798, and was subsequently translated into several languages. The Glee Club will sing a new English translation by Robert Shaw and Alice Parker.

Tickets are available at the Richardson box office, 258-5000, and can be purchased in advance or on the night of the concert. General admission is $10, student tickets are $5.

Mendelssohn Work Will Be Sung By Musical Amateurs

Singers of all ages and experience levels who enjoy choral singing are invited to join the chorus of The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs on Sunday, April 13, at 4 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road, to sing Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise."

Known as the "Lobgesang," this "duet for chorus and orchestra" will be sung in English. No audition is required and there are no rehearsals. This is the final reading in the Society's '96-'97 season. A $4 admission fee is charged at the door which includes refreshments and the use of a choral score. Students and non-participants are admitted free of charge.

The work will be conducted by Barbara Barstow, musical director and conductor of the Westminster Community Orchestra. Ms. Barstow is also a member of the faculties of Westminster Choir College and of the Westminster Conservatory. A larger than usual (40-piece) orchestra will provide the accompaniment. Soloists will be soprano Anne Ackley Gray and tenor Sam Hutcheson.

The monthly meetings of the Society, now in its 62nd year, are attended by an average of 100 singers and an orchestra of 35. Prominent choral conductors, drawn from the Central Jersey area, take the podium each month and professional soloists usually handle the solo parts. The organization is ideal for the individual who enjoys making music but cannot give time to rehearsing for a performance.

August Wilson's "Jitney" At Crossroads Theatre

August Wilson's play Jitney is the final production of Crossroads Theatre's 1996-97 season. It will run for five weeks from April 13 to May 18.

Mr. Wilson is a two-time Pulitzer Prize winner for Fences and The Piano Lesson, and is known for other Broadway hits which include Seven Guitars, Mo'Nique's Block Bottom, and Joe Turner's Come and Gone. He will be in residence at Crossroads for the rehearsal period to develop and shape Jitney. The theater is located at 7 Livingston Avenue in New Brunswick.

The play's latest production was last summer at the Pittsburgh Public Theatre. It is scheduled for a later run in New York City.

Walter Dallas, artistic director of Freedom Theatre in Philadelphia, who directed

The Rabbit Foot at Crossroads during the 1988-89 season, returns as director of Jitney. Mr. Dallas directed the production of The Old Settler at the McCarter Theatre.

A jitney, as it is called in Pittsburgh, Wilson's hometown, is equivalent to a gypsy cab in the New York area. The play is set in a jitney station — a self-created, self-supplied, self-owned, self-run taxi service — in which each man, after paying monthly dues, uses the jitney's telephone number and location as the station from which to make runs.

The Crossroads production reunites six of the actors from the Pittsburgh production. Returning in their roles are Paul Butler as Becker, the boss of the jitney station, Cortez Nance as Doub, Yvette Ganier in the role of Rena, Willis Burke as Shealy, Stephen Henderson as Turnbo and Anthony Chisholm as Fielding.

Playing in Jitney for the first time are Curtis McClarin who plays Youngblood, Jerome Preston Bates, who is cast in the role of Booster, Peggy R. Johnson as the Woman and Penrod Parker as the Man.

Regular performances are Wednesdays to Saturdays at 8, Saturdays and Sundays at 3, and Thursday student matinees at 11 a.m.

Single ticket prices range from $22 to $32. For more information, call (908) 249-5560. Group discounts are 10 to 20 percent. For information concerning group rates, call Ros Neal at (908) 249-5581, extension 17.

Bernoulli's Principle. After the show, students are invited to experiment with hands-on projects, investigate actual student inventions and have refreshments.

At 3, three more guest speakers will talk about inventions that have changed our lives. Timothy Hosea, M.D. will discuss inventions in the world of orthopedic medicine like X-ray technology and artificial joints. Naval architect Gregory Lee will discuss innovations in the design of boats and ships, and a spokesperson from Arm and Hammer products will speak about everyday inventions like toothpaste that have changed personal hygiene practices.

YWCA House Tour Focuses on Homes That Have Changed

"Rooms to View: Metamorphosis," the 1997 YWCA House Tour, will be held on Saturday, April 19, from 1 to 4.

Featured on the tour are Princeton-area homes that have experienced a transformation or a marked change of character, appearance, condition or function. Among these homes are structures that once served as barns, a dairy, a tile factory, and a warehouse.

Those who attended last year's tour featuring the work of "Michael Graves in Princeton" saw how this architect transformed a stonemason's warehouse into an elegant home. This transformation inspired the 1997 Princeton YWCA House Tour theme of "Metamorphosis." In response to popular demand, a second opportunity to view Michael Graves' constantly evolving "Warehouse" home is included in this year's tour.

Admission to the tour is $25 per person in advance and $35 on the day of tour should tickets still be available. Discounts are offered to senior citizens and groups of 20 or more. Ticket sales will be limited. Due to the fact that last year's tour sold out, tour organizers encourage the early purchase of tickets.

Tickets are on sale now at the Princeton YWCA registration office, Monday through Thursday, 8:30 to 8, Fridays, 8:30 to 6, and Saturdays, 8:30 to 12:30. Tickets may also be purchased at Village Paint and Wallpaper, Route 206, Rocky Hill.

The tour program book with a map highlighting the locations of the tour sites will be distributed after 9:30 on the day of the tour at the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place. The homes may be visited in any order and the tour will take place rain or shine. Children age 15 or over, accompanied by an adult, are welcome. The committee regrets that it cannot admit children under age 15.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit YWCA Special Programs, such as the Breast Cancer Resource Center and English as a Second Language, among others. For more information, call 497-2100.

Rock Brook School Sets Social Skills Conference

The Rock Brook School, a special education program for children with communication disorders and learning problems, is presenting a one-day conference entitled "Creating a Sociocommunicative Tapestry: Practical Strategies for Success" on Saturday, April 19. It will be held at Montgomery High School, Burnt Hill Road, Skillman from 8:30 to 4.

Diane D. Twachtman-Cullen, a communication disorders specialist, will be the featured speaker. She will deal with the neurological compromises and sociocommunicative challenges that compromise behavior in children with developmental and learning disabilities. Her intention is to provide a step-by-step approach to dealing with the social difficulties faced by special needs children.

Open to parents, teachers and professionals, the cost of the conference is $35, which includes a box lunch. Checks should be made payable to the Rock Brook School, PO Box 297, Blawenburg 08504. For information call 466-2989.

Flea Market Planned By Watershed Ass'n

The Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association will hold a flea market Saturday, April 19 from 10 to 4 at the Watershed Reserve in Hopewell Township, located off Route 31 north of Pennington. Antiques, furniture, housewares and gifts are just some of the items that await the bargain hunter.

Table space is available at $10 per space but renters must bring their own table. Donations may be made directly to the Watershed Association to be sold at its tables. Proceeds from this event benefit the Watershed's environmental education programs.

FROM CONVENT TO OFFICE PARK? Residents charge that the purchase of Our Lady of Princeton property would lead to creeping commercialism in their neighborhood.

Our Lady of Princeton

School initially, possibly to be replaced by office use), and the first and second floors of the main house (although the Kornhausers have also indicated they want to use the house as their family residence and also for social activities, receptions and gatherings such as conferences, retreats and seminars for businesses and other groups).

A use variance requires affirmative vote of at least five members of the Zoning Board. The application also requires site plan approval and conditional use authorization by the Zoning Board. The Kornhausers have elected to "bifurcate" the application, requesting the use variance first, and if it is granted then submitting an application with documentation for the other approvals.

"Office Park" Feared

In their letter to the neighbors, Mr. Tregoe, Mr. Hegener and Mr. Slapp characterize the application as being for "an unrestricted office park and conference/catering center on 43 acres." They note that there is no limitation on the number of employees occupying the office buildings, no limitation on the number of parking spaces and no limitation on the hours of operation or whether it could become a different use, such as medical offices.

"We totally reject the developer's rationale that a commercial use will preserve the open space and protect the neighborhood from unknown developers and unknown projects," they write. According to Mr. Hegener, they are particularly disturbed that the Kornhausers are unwilling to put deed restrictions on the property to preserve open space and limit the use.

ALK Associates currently occupies 18,000 square feet within an office building at Route 206 and Herrontown Road. The company currently employs 73 people, but the implication in a purchase of this nature is that it is expected to grow.

In his report to the Zoning Board after reviewing the application, professional planner Rick Collier notes that the office use is the primary use contemplated for the property, and that there are a variety of secondary uses, some of which require only conditional use authorization. Mr. Collier says these secondary uses are "considerably more varied and less defined" in the application.

In addition to using the main house as a residence and for social activities, conferences and retreats, facilities would be available in the convent and the main house for lodging and feeding of meeting attendees, he writes. Secondary uses would also include use of the chapel as a religious house of worship, for retreats, group assemblies and community activities.

The basement chapel would remain for school uses, to include the Montessori School, day care or "other educational uses," which could be replaced later by office use. Mr. Collier notes that the existing residential use in the cottage and in the apartment located in the chapel would remain.

In addition to renovations of existing buildings for the variety of uses that are planned, site improvements that are proposed include expanding the parking lot, creating a new 100-foot-long access drive from The Great Road and creating two on-site stormwater detention facilities to detain runoff from the new parking lots. The application calls for constructing 173 spaces and "banking" 115 spaces for installation if needed.

The opponents' letter lists their objections to having a 43-acre commercial zone within the residential neighborhood; to having "a restaurant and hotel serving transient visitors" in the neighborhood; to increased traffic; to "the 275 parking places, the inevitable traffic light or a brightly lighted parking lot required for the protection of shift workers." They express concern that approval of the application "opens the door for similar use of any nearby site — creeping commercialization" and that their property values "will suffer irreparable harm."

In It for the Long Fight

Mr. Tregoe and Mr. Slapp hired attorney Richard Goldman of Drinker Biddle & Reath to represent them. Meanwhile Mr. Slapp retained Jack McCarthy III of McCarthy and Schatzman. The two lawyers will work together.

They have also retained Richard Coppola, a professional planner, and Frank Zabawski, a traffic consultant. In their letter, Mr. Tregoe, Mr. Hegener and Mr. Slapp write: "If we are unsuccessful at the Zoning Board, we will take our case to the Princeton Township Committee, and if we do not prevail at the Township Committee, we will file an appeal with the Superior Court of New Jersey. Our resolve is firm and we are in for the long fight."

The letter was sent with a "Letter of Authorization" which neighbors could sign to indicate their opposition to the application. According to Mr. Tregoe, 60 of these have been returned, and neighbors from Ridgeview Road as well as The Great Road, Heather Lane and Drakes Corner Road have indicated an interest in joining the fight.

A meeting is planned for Thursday evening in Mr. McCarthy's office to give neighbors an opportunity to ask questions, hear the legal arguments and learn what strategy is being planned. Meanwhile, the Kornhausers are reported to have held their own meeting with neighbors last Monday evening, to give their side of the story.

It promises to be a lively session on Wednesday, April 16, and standing room only in the Township meeting room.

—Barbara L. Johnson

ART

Artists Discuss Texture At Encore Books & Music

Pat Martin and David Raymond, members of the Princeton Artists Alliance, will discuss texture in art from 7 to 8 p.m. Thursday, April 24, at Encore Books and Music, Princeton Shopping Center.

"Scumbling" and "under-painting" are among the terms Ms. Martin will address, along with materials ranging from marble dust to coffee grounds to mattress ticking that she uses to achieve the desired textural effects.

Mr. Raymond regards texture as "a conscious choice at all times," saying that some artists work against paint's tendency to thicken, thereby producing more optical than tactile results.

May's presentation, on photography, will feature Madeleine Shellaby and William Vandever.

Exhibitions

An exhibition of photographs by Bill Gregory will open at Cameron Gallery with a public reception on April 20, from 5 to 7 p.m. The collection of some 30 images is Mr. Gregory's first solo local exhibition in more than a decade. Composed mainly of works made during his travels in this country and abroad, the exhibition includes photographs taken as close to home as Princeton and Asbury Park, as well as those made in such far-away places as Antalya, Turkey and on Mount Snowdon in Wales.

According to Mr. Gregory, a resident of Jefferson Road, using a camera enhances the travel experience. "My camera helps me to see when I travel. The continuum of pattern and changes of light that first drew me to photography figure as powerful attractions in the landscape."

Working exclusively in black and white, he uses a variety of 35mm cameras. He also uses a Leica M6 and a Nikon F3. He has found, however, that a point-and-shoot is a valuable addition to his photographic tools, and some of his favorite images have been made with an Olympus Stylus zoom.

Mr. Gregory's photographs have been seen regularly in Garden State Home and Garden magazine and the Time-Off section of the Packet Papers, as well as in the Trenton Times and Central New Jersey Home News. His work is on exhibition at "The Light Fantastic," a gallery concentrating on photography in Flemington.

His work has been included in group shows in the Princeton area and in New England and he was also responsible for a photographic record of the work of the sculptor Joe Brown for the archives of the Joe Brown Foundation.

The exhibition will remain on view through May 31. Cameron Gallery is at Soufflé, 14 Farber Road. Hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 to 4.

The Williams Gallery of Fine Art, Chambers Street, will present an exhibition, "Meditations and Permutations" from April 12 through May 17. An opening reception will be held Saturday, April 12, from 4 to 6 p.m.

The exhibition explores the continuum of symbols past and present. Included are intaglio prints of Princeton artist Margaret Kennard Johnson, etchings from the "Greek" series by Jorg Schmeisser, mixed medium paintings by Sally Spofford, and marble sculpture from the "Shell" series by Gar Waterman.

The gallery is open Wednesday through Saturday from 11 to 5 and by appointment.

Tiger Lacrosse Survives Slowdown by Brown to Go 6-0; Crews Sweep Carnegie Races Again, Softball Stumbles

Princeton sports fans have come to expect excellence every spring — many of Old Nassau's perennially successful teams play during that season.

There has been no change to those expectations in 1997, but all of them will not be fulfilled this season. While men's lacrosse and crew have lived up to their reputations, women's lacrosse and softball continue to disappoint.

When one thinks of Princeton's men's lacrosse team, one immediately thinks of the top-ranked Tigers' potent offense. But head coach Bill Tierney's squad relies just as heavily on its less-heralded defense, as evidenced in Saturday's 8-5 defeat of Brown (3-4 overall, 0-1 Ivy League) at 1952 Stadium. The victory extends the Orange and Black's (6-0, 2-0) school-record winning streak to 19 games.

Entering the game, all signs pointed to a shoot-out. Princeton had racked up twin 18-goal outings against Penn State and Yale in its previous two contests, while Brown had tallied 43 goals in its last two games, including a shocking 20-12 win over Syracuse at the Carrier Dome. From the opening faceoff, however, a defensive struggle set in.

The Bears, probably the most formidable Ivy rival for the Tigers, settled into a deliberate and conservative offensive set in front of senior goalie Patrick Cairns. Content to be patient, Brown controlled possession for several minutes at a time, keeping the ball away from Princeton's dangerous front line. But tenacious defensive play by senior Becket Wolf, junior Christian Cook and sophomores John Harrington and Kurt Lunkenheimer limited the Bears' opportunities for good shots.

Meanwhile, the Tiger offense struggled after junior attackman Jon Hess opened the scoring at the two-minute, 31-second mark of the first quarter on a breakaway goal. Princeton could not mount many serious offensive possessions and Brown goalie Greg Catrano, last week's Ivy Player of the Week, was in top form, stifling the Orange and Black time after time.

Awake After the Break

The Bears held a slim 2-1 advantage at halftime, but the dormant Princeton attack awakened after the break, as Old Nassau became more aggressive on attack instead of being lulled into a slow-down game. Junior attackman Chris Massey notched the equalizer at the 5:08 mark of the third, ending Catrano's shutout stretch at 32 minutes, 37 seconds. Massey scored his second goal of the game just 1:42 later, shifting the momentum to the Tigers' side.

Princeton, which had looked flat in the first half, continued to control play in the third stanza, as the Tigers kept the ball in the Brown end for most of the period. Massey's pair of quick strikes ignited a five-goal third-quarter outburst in a 6:16 span that gave Princeton a 6-2 lead. The Bears became increasingly frustrated as the rally progressed, while the 2,486 fans at 1952 Stadium stomped their feet in approval.

"Once we got rolling, we were able to go with it," Massey said. "We weren't sure what to expect from them. They ran up and down with Syracuse and dominated that game, so we weren't sure what they'd try to do against us. It was frustrating in the first half, but our defense played really well. We wanted to score, but we never could get the ball."

Following Massey's two scores, sophomore midfielder Lorne Smith, junior attackman Jesse Hubbard and junior midfielder Seamus Grooms finished off the third-quarter spurt. While the Bears were able to score three times in the fourth quarter, they could not recover from their defensive lapse in the third.

Massey and Hess led the Orange and Black with two goals and one assist apiece, as Massey scored at least three points for the 14th consecutive game. Catrano continued to make a case for himself as the nation's best goalie, setting a new 1952 Stadium record for saves by stopping 20 of the Tigers' 40 shots. Yet he was outdueling by Cairns, who came up with 11 saves as his goals-against average dropped to a sparkling 6.96.

Princeton will attempt to remain the only undefeated team in Division I men's lacrosse Saturday, April 12 when the Tigers take on Harvard in a 1 p.m. matchup at 1952 Stadium. The contest will be broadcast on WTTM 920AM and WPRB 103.3FM.

Women Gain Split

The women's lacrosse team continued to be as unpredictable as the early-April weather. Head coach Chris Sailer's squad continued its Jekyll-and-Hyde play with a pair of blowouts this week — one a humiliating defeat, the other an encouraging win.

Old Nassau began the week with its worst defeat in Sailer's tenure, a 15-2 loss to Temple last Wednesday at 1952 Stadium. But the Tigers (3-5, 2-1) followed up that demoralizing loss with a 15-4 rout of a strong Brown squad Saturday at Lourie-Love Field, keeping alive their hopes of winning a share of the Ivy League title.

The Orange and Black was victimized by another slow start against the Owls, giving up four goals in the first 10 minutes of the game for the third time this year. Goals by senior midfielder Janice Petrella and junior attack Melissa Cully cut the Temple lead in half, but the Owls' Iris Alvarado shut the Tigers out for the final 42:14 of the game to pick up her first career win.

Here's a tough trivia question for you ... Only 2 teams whose nicknames don't end in the letter "s" have won the championship of big league baseball, the NFL, NBA or NHL anytime in the last 78 years ... Can you name those 2 teams? ... They are the Colorado Avalanche who won the NHL title last year, and the Boston Red Sox who won the World Series back in 1918.

Did you ever consider a $1000 deductible on your homeowner's insurance policy? You might save money!

Amazingly, 2 famous college basketball stars, the all-time college scoring leader Pete Maravich and the great Dr. J, Julius Erving, NEVER played in the NCAA tournament ... Maravich played for LSU (1968-1970) and Erving for Massachusetts (1969-71) and, oddly, those teams never made the NCAA tournament despite having those superstars.

Here's a father-son oddity in baseball ... Only 4 men in big league history have hit more than 300 homers and stolen more than 300 bases — AND 2 of the 4 who did it are a father-son combination ... They are Barry Bonds and his father Bobby ... The only other 2 players who have done it are Willie Mays and Andre Dawson.

Tiger Sports

Temple defeated Princeton for the first time since 1992 while handing the Tigers their worst loss since a 20-7 drubbing by Delaware in the final game of the 1986 campaign. Old Nassau did not pose any significant threat against the Owls, continually getting outthrustled by Temple's speedy attacks and middles.

But right when it seemed that Princeton was ready to crumble, the Tigers had no trouble with Brown Saturday in an important Ivy contest. Just as Temple had scored nine unanswered goals in the second half to break open a closely-contested game, Princeton outdistanced the Bears with the same nine-goal, second-half outburst.

Three of Cully's team-high four goals came in a 2:36 span within that run, the last of which gave Princeton a 13-3 advantage and started the running clock. Saller's squad defeated Brown for the seventh consecutive squad, but it did not look like it would be easy at halftime.

Brown battled back from a 4-1 deficit midway through the first half to climb within one goal before sophomore attack Courtney Booth scored her first goal of the game to make the score 5-3 heading into halftime. Booth added two more goals in Princeton's second-half run, giving her a career-high three scores for the day. Senior midfielder Casey Coleman also had a hat trick for the Tigers.

The Orange and Black will play its next three games on the road, beginning with a key Ivy battle Wednesday, April 9, at Pennsylvania at 3:30 p.m. The game will be broadcast on WTTM 920AM. Princeton needs to win the rest of its Ivy games and hope for help if it has any chance of sharing the Ivy title with Dartmouth.

Softball Stumbles

Another squad having trouble duplicating its 1996 success is the softball team (12-15), which has already suffered almost twice as many defeats this season (15) as it did all of last season (8). The struggling team attempted to get back on track last weekend at the Princeton Invitational — a four-team event held at 1895 Field which the Tigers won last year.

But Old Nassau could not defend its title or win a game in the tourney, dropping all four games it played. Head coach Cindy Cohen, who had continually stressed the importance of hitting, pitching and fielding, added one more necessary item to that list after watching her team score five runs in four games — the mental aspect.

Princeton's bats were silent against Connecticut and Southwestern Louisiana Saturday afternoon, dropping a 5-0 decision to the Huskies and a 1-0 squeaker to the Lady Cajuns. Continuing round-robin play Sunday, the Tigers fell to Hofstra, 5-3. Despite its 0-3 record, Princeton could still have reached the championship game if it defeated Southwestern Louisiana, but lost the rematch with the eventual tourney champions, 5-2.

The Orange and Black got off to an inauspicious start in the tournament against UConn, as senior pitcher Maureen Davies and junior pitcher Alyssa Smith combined to give up five runs and 10 hits in seven innings. Of those 10 hits, six were doubles and one was a two-run, first-inning home run by UConn's Karin Muller. Davies, Princeton's ace and the starter in game one, pitched five innings and gave up four runs. Davies saw her record slip to 6-8 with the loss.

Sophomore pitcher Lynn Miller's outing Saturday was much stronger than Davies', allowing only four hits and one run in six innings, but she received no offensive support from her teammates. Junior center fielder Bevin Keenen had two of the Tigers' five hits, but the Lady Cajuns'

Kim Dunlap quashed Princeton's rally hopes with a masterful performance.

After the Tigers dropped Sunday's first game to Hofstra, Miller and Dunlap had another duel with a championship game berth on the line. Dunlap emerged victorious again, as Southwestern Louisiana rallied for five runs in the top of the sixth inning to finish off Princeton's disappointing weekend.

The lone bright spot for Cohen's team was the return to the starting lineup of senior Tara Christie, who had suffered an ankle injury in the preseason. In her first start this season, Christie batted two for three against the Lady Cajuns Sunday, wrapping up a successful weekend in which she collected four hits in five at bats.

Old Nassau was scheduled to play a twinbill at Delaware Tuesday afternoon, but the upcoming weekend features the start of Princeton's Ivy League slate with home doubleheaders scheduled against Cornell Saturday and Pennsylvania Sunday. The action starts at 1 p.m. each day, and Sunday's doubleheader can be heard live on WPRB 103.3FM.

Celebrating on the Water

With multiple events and celebrations Saturday commemorating the various anniversaries of Princeton's crew teams, the morning's races were almost lost amongst all the hoop-la. But the Orange and Black celebrated on the water as well, winning all 13 of the races held on Lake Carnegie.

Men's heavyweight crew, celebrating its 125th anniversary this year, held off Rutgers with no trouble as its first varsity boat won by more than 10 seconds, 5:48.02 to 5:58.84. The Tigers' third varsity heavyweight squad thrashed the Scarlet Knights, 6:12.30 to 6:43.55.

Meanwhile, the lightweights' first varsity boat dispatched of Navy, 5:58.94 to 6:12.85, on the day its 75th anniversary was being marked. Celebrating its 25th anniversary, women's crew first varsity had the closest race of the day, edging past Rutgers, 6:34.70 to 6:36.70, with Columbia and Navy bringing up the rear.

All first varsity boats will look to improve upon their 2-0 records Saturday, April 12. The heavyweights will race Penn and Columbia at Lake Carnegie, where the women's team will face Cornell and Harvard. The lightweights will travel to Cornell to race the Big Red and Rutgers.

Tigers Disappoint in First Ivy Weekend, Losing Three of Four to Yale and Brown

Homestands are valuable in Ivy League baseball, and teams don't want to squander them by going 1-3, as Princeton did against Yale and Brown this weekend. Granted, an identical 1-3 start in 1996 eventually ended with an Ivy League title, but this is a new year, and it's a new hole the Tigers have dug themselves.

The Tigers' disappointing start was made even more so by the knowledge that all three of the losses came in spite of excellent performances from Princeton's starting pitchers. Freshman John Tedeman was the only Tiger hurler to come away with a win, although there were three others who each deserved one.

In the opener against Yale, which the Tigers lost 3-0, junior right-hander Ben Smith threw a complete game, allowing nine hits over seven innings, striking out four and walking three. Yale touched Smith for single runs in the first, third, and fourth innings, but Smith held on through the final three frames without allowing a run.

The Tiger bats were conspicuously silent against Yale's Rich Perez, who allowed singles by designated hitter Matt Evans and third baseman Sean McQuaid, two walks, and nothing else.

In the second game of the Saturday doubleheader, Brian Volpp was even tougher, allowing only one run on four hits and two walks. Volpp also threw a complete game, but he came away with a loss, just like Smith.

The deciding run came in the seventh inning, after Volpp allowed a lead-off double to Yale first baseman Tony Coyne. Coyne later scored on a sacrifice and a throwing error, giving the Elis all they would need.

The Bulldogs' Sudha Reddy was the second Yale pitcher of the afternoon to throw a two-hit shutout, as Mike Hazen and Gino Barbera were the only Tigers to get base hits.

Split with Brown

In the first game against Brown on Sunday, Tedeman got the help he needed from the Princeton offense — not that he needed much. The left-hander from Boston took his record to 3-0 with a complete game two-hit showing.

Tedeman held Brown hitless until the fifth inning, when a ground ball single found its way through the infield. By then, the Tigers were leading 3-0.

In the first inning, Mike Keck slapped a two-out single and a pair of run-scoring doubles by Evans and Hazen made the score 2-0. In the fifth, Evans walked with two out, stole second, and scored on a clutch single by Hazen to put Princeton up 3-0.

Brown scored after a walk and an error in the sixth inning, spoiling Tedeman's potential shutout. Princeton added one more in the bottom of the sixth when freshman catcher Chris "Buster" Small (2-for-3) doubled and came home on a Barbera single.

Sadly for Princeton, the second game saw the Tiger offense revert to its Saturday afternoon form. Tim Killgoar got the start and pitched five scoreless innings before allowing a single Brown run in the top of the sixth. With no offensive help, that left him in a 1-0 hole.

Princeton got that one back in the bottom of the inning, but Killgoar was tiring. He allowed a pair of runs in the top of the seventh before freshman Jason Quintana came on to get the final two outs. Princeton was unable to score in the bottom of the seventh, and Brown went home with the 3-0 win.

Killgoar's numbers for the day were impressive. He allowed seven hits over 6 1/3 innings, walked none, and struck out seven.

Slugfest

Princeton's performance against Monmouth last week gave no indication of the offensive drought that would strike over the weekend. The Tigers beat Monmouth College 12-11 in a slugfest that involved seven Princeton pitchers. After taking a 3-0 first inning lead, Princeton never trailed the Hawks, but certainly suffered some agonizing moments.

Brian Stroh started for Princeton, lasting 4 1/3 innings and allowing three runs on three hits and four walks, and striking out three. Quintana earned the win by closing out the fifth inning, although he only faced two batters.

The Tigers scored three in the first and one in the second, but Monmouth cut the lead to 4-3 in the bottom of the fifth. Princeton surged ahead briefly in the sixth with three runs, but Monmouth answered them all in the bottom of the inning.

Joe Machado started the sixth, but retired with three Monmouth runs on his record. Sophomore Patrick Henning came on to pitch two full innings, but would be pulled after Monmouth scored two runs in the eighth.

Princeton put three more on the board in the top of the eighth, but the home team refused to roll over, answering with two runs in the bottom of the frame to make the score 10-8 heading into the ninth.

Smith, in for Henning, allowed three runs before Tedeman and Volpp came in to close out the contest.

The Griffin brothers, Asher and Justin, were the offensive engine that drove the team. Justin, the lead-off man who plays center field, was 3-for-6 with a double, four runs scored, and one RBI. Asher Griffin, who played shortstop and hit second, was 3-for-5 with two doubles, two runs scored, and two RBIs.

Evans was an impressive 2-for-3 with a run scored and three RBIs. McQuaid and Hazen were both 2-for-5, McQuaid with a double, a run scored, and two RBIs, and Hazen with one run scored and one RBI.

Princeton was scheduled to play Rider University on Tuesday, too late for this issue. This weekend the Tigers take the Ivy show on the road, facing Dartmouth for two games in Hanover on Saturday and Harvard for a pair on Sunday in Cambridge.

Panther Baseball Opens With Split of 2 Games

Two games into its season, the Princeton Day baseball team's talents are obviously no match for a perennial power like Hamilton, but far superior to a school on its schedule for the first time, Mountain Lakes.

The Hornets shut out the Panthers 8-0 on two hits in the season opener last Friday, but 24 hours later the Blue and White blew away Mountain Lakes, 19-3. So PDS will need a few more games to find out just how good a team it has. It was scheduled to play Gill St. Bernards this past Tuesday, then take on Hunterdon Central on Friday, Pennington on Saturday and Lawrenceville on Monday.

Against Hamilton, PDS managed just a pair of singles, one by Brooks Landry. Brian McKitish was the losing pitcher, allowing seven of the eight runs on six hits in almost four innings of work.

Twenty-four hours later, the Panther bats boomed out 17 hits against Mountain Lakes pitching. Led by Landry's three hits and four RBIs, McKitish's two hits and four runs scored, and Andrew Breitenberg's two hits and four RBIs, the Blue and White led 10-0 after three innings, and piled it on from there. Bob Paun pitched five innings, giving up three runs on eight hits, and striking out five. Charlie King pitched two scoreless innings in relief.

PDS Softball Routed By Two Prep B Foes

It was an inauspicious start by the Princeton Day softball team last week. The Panthers, who won the Prep B title last spring, were routed by Pennington, 16-6, in their opening game last Friday, and 18-2 by Gill St. Bernards on Monday. Both contests were halted after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Against Pennington, PDS was competitive through the first three frames. It allowed the Raiders four runs in the top of the first, but matched that in its half. Neither scored in the second, and the Blue and White took a 5-4 lead after three. Then the roof fell in. The visitors tallied four in the fourth and seven more in the fifth, while PDS could manage nothing. PDS was held to just three hits.

The contest against Gill got out of hand much quicker. The home team led 10-2 after three innings, and then applied the crusher, eight runs in the fourth. On the bright side for Princeton Day, it doubled its hit total to six, but 11 errors in the field was tough to overcome.

PDS Lacrosse Loses To Hillsborough, 7-6

The Princeton Day boys' lacrosse team opened its 1997 season last week the same way it began last year — with a loss to Hillsborough. And the Panthers won't mind at all if they close the campaign the same way as last spring — with a victory in the Prep B championship contest.

But in between there is work to be done to make sure that can happen. This PDS team was cruising along with a 4-0 lead at halftime, and seemed to be in control. However, the momentum turned in the third quarter when the home team outscored PDS, 4-1, and the Blue and White led just 5-4 entering the final period.

Hillsborough outscored Princeton Day in the final 12 minutes, getting the winning score moments before time ran out in regulation. Sophomore Chris Westcott led PDS, scoring a hat trick and adding an assist. Freshman John Dorazio contributed a goal and one assist, and Erinc Sen and Patrick Holmes also scored. Starting his first game in goal, freshman Alex Potter made 10 saves.

Four home games are on tap for this week, the first scheduled against Hun this past Tuesday. On Thursday, PDS will face Pingry, Saturday it will meet Dwight Englewood and next Tuesday, Manasquan High.

Hun Softball Devastates Two Prep Opponents

The Hun School softball team won two games this week by a combined score of 41-1. Enough said?

Well, perhaps not, but Hun's opponents have nothing but more of the same to look forward to this season, and after a while, it may only be necessary to report the scores.

Hun opened the year by crushing Peddie 19-1 on the Falcons' home field. "We did something we haven't done in a while," said coach Kathy Quirk, "We hit the ball."

Senior Jessica Beattie went 5-for-5 with three RBIs and classmate Jen Sabol was 4-for-5 two doubles and four RBIs. The Raiders scored in every inning, and led 11-1 after three frames.

Beattie pitched for Hun, earning the first of what will doubtlessly be numerous victories this season. She allowed two hits and, uncharacteristically, walked four.

Against St. Elizabeth's on Monday, Hun crushed the host squad 22-0. Beattie threw another two-hitter and was 4-for-5 at the plate with a triple and five RBIs. Sabol was 3-for-4 with a triple, Erica Rosenthal had a double and two RBIs.

Hun plays Kent Place Tuesday, away. On Thursday the Raiders host Pennington at 4 p.m., and on Saturday they host Lawrence High at 11 a.m. Monday brings a 4 p.m. home match against Nottingham.

Raiders Finish Strong In 15-9 Opening Win

After playing a tight first half against the Academy of New Church, the Raider boys' lacrosse team put together some tough defense in the second half and went on to win its season opener 15-9.

Hun led 8-7 after the opening half, but held the visiting ANC squad to only two goals in the second. Hun goalie Trevor Tierney made eight saves for the Raiders.

Most of Hun's scoring came from Morgan Battle and Brendan Tierney, who had five and four goals, respectively. Winslow Lewis contributed three, and single tallies came from Max Wright, Chad Gagnon, and Matt Zisler. In addition to their goal scoring, Tierney and Lewis had four assists apiece.

The Raiders were scheduled to play PDS on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On Thursday they host St. Joseph's of Metuchen at 4 p.m., and on Saturday they have a 2 p.m. home game scheduled against Blair Academy.

Hun Tennis Starts 1-0; Looks to Keep Winning

The loss of three seniors to graduation didn't hit the Hun School tennis team as hard as it might have, thanks to some young talent and a transfer student from Germany.

The Raiders started the season with a 4-1 defeat of Princeton Day School, which coach Dana Radanovic called, "a pretty good showing." Radanovic says that she feels her squad has improved since last season.

IF YOU LIVE outside of Princeton and are regularly buying TOWN TOPICS at a newsstand, a mail subscription can save you time and money. Call 924-2200 today.

Starting at first singles is veteran Rip Rice, who started in that same slot as a freshman. Rice, who Radanovic calls a "solid" player, met Princeton Day's Gavin Jackson and won 6-4, 6-2.

The Raiders have transfer student Johann Lorenzen starting at second singles. The native of Germany fell 6-2, 6-2 to Princeton Day's Brett Carty in last week's meeting, but is expected to hold down the second singles position ably.

At third singles, the Raiders have talented freshman Dan Weinstein. In his opening match, Weinstein outlasted PDS's Kal Vepuri 6-7 (0-7), 6-3, 7-5.

Radanovic reports that she will be spending a lot of time with her doubles teams this season. "You can't just rely on your singles players to get three wins. You need to get at least one from your doubles teams."

Against PDS, her doubles teams gave her two wins. The teams' only seniors, co-captains Tapan Tailor and Adam Wong, make up the first doubles squad. Sophomores Alex Shaine and Andy Saltman play together at second doubles.

Tailor and Wong won a marathon third-set tiebreaker against Tom Anderman and Mike France of PDS, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6 (12-10), for a key win last week. Playing the Panthers' Tom Kim and Jordan Cooper, Shaine and Saltman won 6-3, 6-0.

Hun played Nottingham on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On Friday, the Raiders host the George School at 3:45 p.m. Over the weekend hun will compete in the Blair Tournament at Blair Academy.

Anne Jamieson Stars In PDS Lacrosse Win

A young Princeton Day girls' lacrosse team that will be hard pressed to match last year's 13-2-1 mark, showed it is ready to do whatever it takes to win this spring.

In their opening game, the Panthers battled George School into the second overtime period, before Annie Jamieson's second goal of the game gave PDS a 6-5 triumph. Princeton Day jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first half, but the visitors came back in the second, scoring three goals to one for PDS.

The game went into overtime, and each team scored once in the first extra session. In the second, PDS scored twice to just once for George. In addition to her two goals, Jamieson also assisted on two others. Lauren Welsh also tallied four points, scoring three times and adding an assist. Kari Zarzecki had the other goal. Sophomore Margo Smith stopped 17 shots in goal.

The competition will get more difficult this week. PDS was scheduled to face Morristown-Beard this past Tuesday, Hun on Wednesday, Greenwich Academy on Friday, and Stuart on Saturday.

PHS Baseball Team Wins 7-5 Victory Vs. South Hunterdon

The Princeton High baseball team earned its first victory of the season Monday, topping South Hunterdon 7-5. Jeff Graydon pitched a complete game seven-hitter for the Tigers, walking three and striking out six.

Graydon was also 2-for-2 at the plate with a pair of doubles and an RBI. Other PHS batters who helped make a difference were Bennett Fisher, Ray Tucholski, and Jeff Mapps. Fisher was 2-for-3 with two doubles, one run scored, and two RBIs. Tucholski was 2-for-3 with a double, a run scored, and two RBIs. Mapps was 2-for-4 with an RBI and a stolen base.

The season-opener was a disappointing 8-7 loss for the Tigers, who saw a two-run lead over Ewing melt away in the bottom of the final inning.

It had been a back-and-forth affair from the beginning, as Princeton started the first inning off with a 1-0 lead only to have Ewing answer with two runs in the bottom half of the frame. The Tigers went up 3-2 in the top of the third, but the host squad tied the score in the bottom of the inning.

Princeton scored once in the fifth, but Ewing answered yet again, posting a pair to lead 5-4 headed into the sixth. The Tigers scored three runs in the top of the sixth, and held Ewing scoreless in the bottom half, to take a 7-5 lead into the final frame.

The Tigers were unable to score in the top of the seventh, and Ewing loaded the bases with none out against Chris Butts in the bottom of the inning. Butts was relieved by Justin Miller, who walked three straight to end the game.

At the plate, Miller was 2-for-4 with a triple and a run scored; Fisher was 2-for-4 with an RBI; and Steve Placantini was 2-for-3.

Fisher started on the mound and lasted 4 1/3 innings, allowing five runs on six hits while walking three and striking out four. Butts pitched 1 1/3 innings, allowing three runs on three hits and two walks.

Against South Brunswick on Saturday, Miller opened the game with a solo home run to put Princeton ahead 1-0. It would be the Tigers' only lead in a game that ended in a 12-4 win for the home squad.

South Brunswick knocked starter Mike Cortese out of the game in the top of the second inning, after tagging him for four runs on three hits and three walks. Miller threw four innings of relief and gave up six runs on five hits and four walks, striking out three. Graydon pitched the sixth inning, allowing two runs on three hits and striking out two.

Graydon was 2-for-3 at the plate with a triple, a run scored, and an RBI. Fisher was 1-for-3 with a double, a run scored, and an RBI.

PHS played Hopewell on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On Wednesday, the Tigers host Montgomery at 3:45, and on Friday they visit Notre Dame. On Monday they host Lawrenceville at 3:45.

MAPPS GETS ON BOARD: Princeton High's Jeff Mapps knocks a single against Ewing Friday. The Tigers started the season with a 1-2 record this week.

Hun Splits Opening Pair; Gross Hits Grand Slam

The Raider baseball team started the season with a 6-3 win over Lawrenceville, sparked by a big-time performance by senior Arthur Gross. The left-hander from Princeton pitched a complete game win and added a grand slam home run in his first at-bat of the season.

The Raiders opened the first inning by loading the bases for Gross, who pulled an inside curveball over the right field fence to give his team all the runs it would need.

Gross then took the mound, and after working out some first-inning jitters, went on to pitch the full seven innings. He allowed two earned runs on six hits and two walks, while striking out four.

A visit to the Hill School on Saturday wasn't as pleasant, as Hun went home on the short end of a 16-6 score. Post-grad Dudley Hoskins took the loss, lasting 4 1/3 innings and allowing 14 runs (eight earned) on seven hits and four walks. He also struck out six.

Luke Tozzi relieved and allowed two runs on one hit and two walks over 1 1/3 innings of work. Seven errors by the Raider fielders did not make things easier for the Hun pitchers.

At the plate, the Raiders matched Hill's eight hits, but left 13 runners on base. Second baseman Rich Volz was 3-for-5 with two RBIs. Adam Smith was 2-for-3 with two doubles, a run scored, and two RBIs.

Hun played Pennington on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On Wednesday the Raiders play Hightstown on the road at 4 p.m., on Friday they host Peddie at 4 p.m., and on Saturday they host Steiwer at 11 a.m.

Hun Lacrosse Splits Two In Opening Week of Play

Route 206 rival Lawrenceville was too much for the Hun girls' lacrosse team on Tuesday. The Big Red overcame a 5-4 deficit by powering past the Raiders in an 8-5 second half, winning the match 12-10.

Hun got four goals from Joanne Deni and three from Merrin Kramer. Marcy Long, Carla Ritchie, and Lindsey Schwartz scored one each. Meris Burton faced 26 shots and made 14 saves.

The Raiders opened the season with a convincing 13-9 win over Peddie, behind five goals from Deni and 14 saves from Burton. The Raiders made a 9-5 lead in the first half stand up through the second, in which the Falcons kept pace 4-4.

Also scoring for the Raiders were Ritchie and Kramer with two apiece, and Meghan Merritt, Janet Carter, Schwartz, and Manuella DeBarros with one each.

The Raiders play three home games in succession this week. On Wednesday they face Princeton Day School, Friday they host Stuart, and Tuesday they meet Oak Knoll. All games begin at 4 p.m.

PHS Softball Shelled In 16-0 Opening Loss

The Princeton High softball team's season-opening game against Ewing was inauspicious, to say the least. The Blue Devils pounded out 14 hits for 16 runs, while limiting the Tigers to one hit and no runs.

On the mound, Princeton's Hilary Nosker took the loss.

Princeton's originally scheduled opener against McCorristin last Wednesday was rescheduled to April 20. The Tigers were slated to play Hopewell on Tuesday afternoon, too late for this issue. On Friday they visit Notre Dame for a 3:45 p.m. start, and on Monday they host Lawrence also at 3:45.

Rough Start for PHS As Laxmen Go Down 19-0

The Princeton High lacrosse team had the misfortune of starting the season against state power Bridgewater-Raritan last week, and lost 19-0. The Tigers were down 10-0 after the first quarter, and managed only six shots compared to the host squad's 34.

Unfortunately for Princeton, things weren't likely to get any easier in the second game of the season. Princeton was scheduled to meet Lawrenceville on Tuesday afternoon at home, too late for this issue.

Saturday will find the Tigers playing Pennington on the road at noon. Monday afternoon at 4 p.m., they will host Old Bridge.

125 Years of Rowing at Princeton Celebrated Saturday

THEY WERE THE FIRST: The first women to row at Princeton staged a row-by at the finish line on Saturday as part of the celebration of 125 years of rowing at Princeton, 75 years of lightweight rowing and 25 years since women's rowing began. Borrowing an undergraduate coxswain, they are, Joanne Casper '76, stroke, Amy Richlin '72, Carol P. Brown '75, Janet Youngholm '75, Katie Huisman '75, Cathy Brown '76, Abby Rubinfeld '75 and Maurya Meenan '75 in bow.

One hundred twenty-five years of rowing at Princeton University was celebrated on Saturday. Arranged by the Princeton University Rowing Association (PURA), an organization of rowing alumni that supports the undergraduate rowing program, the day-long celebration also marked 75 years of lightweight rowing and 25 years of women's rowing at Princeton.

The day began on a high note as several hundred Princeton rowing alums watched Princeton crews win each of the scheduled heavyweight, lightweight and women's races on Lake Carnegie, competing against crews from Rutgers, Columbia and Navy. In the afternoon, there was a ceremony at the boat house to dedicate 10 new boats, including a replacement Gordon G. Sikes '16 heavyweight racing eight, named for the alumnus who started the 150-lb. crew at Princeton and was a popular coach from 1919 through 1931. A new pair named for Mr. Sikes' wife Sara was also dedicated.

After the ceremony, alumni from various classes, including the class of 1947 which will be celebrating its 50th reunion in June, got a chance to row on the lake once again.

In the evening, there was a banquet at Jadwin Gym, attended by some 640 alumni and friends of rowing. Richard O. Prentke, president of PURA who acted as master of ceremonies, announced a $6 million campaign to renovate and extend the boathouse facilities. This is being undertaken not only because the existing boathouse, which was built in 1913, is in need of refurbishing, but also to accommodate the lightweight women's crew program which will be introduced this fall.

Gary Walters, director of athletics, spoke of the popularity of the rowing program at Princeton. Rowing is the largest single sport at Princeton in terms of the number of participants, Mr. Walters said.

Curtis Jordan, coach of the heavyweights, introduced the other coaches, including Mike Teti, who has been named head coach of the National Team but continues to coach the freshmen heavies; Joe Murtaugh, men's lightweight coach, and Lori Dauphiny, women's coach. All spoke of the unusual degree of cooperation among all the coaches that exists in the Princeton boathouse.

The first annual Howard Russell Baker awards were presented by the PURA to Morris A. Mayer of the Class of 1927, the oldest living rowing alumnus, and Lon F. Israel '45, a generous supporter of Princeton rowing.

A 24-minute film, Princeton Rowing: The First 125 Years, was shown. The film highlights Princeton rowing history and the achievements of Princeton crews. In interviews with Mr. Teti and Frank Bozarth, who retired as rigger in 1994, it also points out the contributions PURA has made to the sport in funding the purchase of equipment and underwriting off-season training costs, such as the annual trip to Florida.

The film was produced by Bob Faron '68 and filmed by Telequest following a time line developed by Stuyvesant Pell '53 of Princeton. Mr. Pell spent weeks in Mudd Library reading through old Nassau Heralds, a campus publication, and class Bric-a-Brac year books.

Coxless Sixes on the Canal

According to Mr. Pell's time line, rowing began at Princeton in 1872, several decades before Lake Carnegie was created. Crews rowed six-oared wooden shells without a coxswain. Light racing shells were sometimes created out of layers of paper laid on a mold and glued one to another and the whole thing shellacked or varnished. However glues and varnishes of those days were not waterproof, and these boats were not much use after one race.

Princeton University's first crew consisted of A. Devereux Jr., Albert Williams '72, Arthur Pell '73, W.H. Burt '73, Allan Marquand '74 and Joseph C. Guernsey '72. They rowed on the canal and competition was primarily inter-class. In 1873, Princeton's first boathouse was built on the canal bank, the gift of Robert Bonner, publisher of the New York Ledger. New shells were purchased, including one that Mr. Pell says sank like a stone on its very first outing. That same year, 15 men comprising University and freshmen crews went to the Intercollegiate Saratoga Regatta in Saratoga, N.Y.

Lake Carnegie was completed in 1906 by which time there were 47 men on the crew squad. It was named for Andrew Carnegie who was persuaded to give the University the funds to purchase the swamp lands and build the dam that turned them into a body of water deep enough for rowing. Lake Carnegie was the first body of water created specifically for rowing.

In the spring of 1907, Constance S. Titus, a former national sculling champion, was named coach and the first intramural race was held on the new lake.

In 1910, Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, professor of English, became the (unpaid) crew coach. The first intercollegiate race on Lake Carnegie, against Yale and Cornell, took place in 1911. Two years later the 1887 boathouse was built in its present location on Lake Carnegie.

In 1919, Dr. Spaeth, unable to take on more coaching, suggested that some "smaller fellows" go over to the Graduate College and talk Gordon G. Sykes into starting a program for lighter weight oarsmen. Mr. Sykes started the 150-lb crew, now known as the lightweight crew, at Princeton in the spring of 1920 and continued to coach them through 1931 when he became head coach. He was succeeded in 1938 by Fred Spuhn, Princeton's first paid coach, who was succeeded year later by Delos "Dutch" Schoch.

Women's Rowing Begins

Women's rowing began in 1972, two years after the first women graduated from Princeton. It was organized by Amy Richlin, a senior, and coached initially by Alfred G. Piranian '69. Mr. Piranian was followed by Kit Raymond '74 and then by Kris Korzeniewski, who coached the National Team at the 1992 Olympics.

Other notable names in the coaching line-up are Gary Kilpatrick who joined the coaching staff as lightweight coach in 1973 and coached the heavyweights for two years in the late 1980s; Peter Sparhawk, who coached at Princeton for 17 years; and Larry Gluckman, who succeeded Mr. Sparhawk as coach of the heavyweights and left Princeton to coach at Dartmouth.

The history of Princeton rowing is replete with the achievements of each of these coaches and their successors, at the Henley Royal Regatta in England, at IRA regattas and at the Eastern Sprints. In the current decade, the women's first varsity were National Collegiate champions in 1991, '93 and '95, and the varsity lightweights won the National Collegiate Championships in 1996.

It is a history in which the PURA alumni, the current coaches and even the undergraduates rowing today can take great pride, as they did on Saturday.

Land Conservancy Appoints Two

Delaware & Raritan Greenway has announced two new appointments. Patricia B. Shapella has been named development director and Patricia Orban Quinby has been promoted to director of public outreach for the regional land conservancy.

Ms. Shapella comes to D&R Greenway after three years as development officer for the Shoestring Players, a performing arts/arts education group in New Brunswick, where she did extensive research and proposal writing for foundation and corporate support, organized fund raising events and worked closely with the board of trustees to meet fund raising goals.

Ms. Quinby has directed D & R Greenway's Hamilton/Trenton Marsh project for the past three years. During that time she developed and implemented an intensive outreach program to promote and enhance the marsh and lay the ground work to permanently protect and preserve it as a nature reserve. Nearly 8,500 residents, students and visitors have participated in D&R Greenway's series of nature walks, historical talks and tours, canoe trips, workshops and school programs. Ms. Quinby also serves as editor of the organization's newsletter, Greenways.

Family Advice Column:
The Purpose of Life

The Rev. Peter K. Stimpson

QUESTION: Recently, I woke up in the middle of the night in a cold sweat, sat up straight, and realized that I'm getting older and will one day die. I can't seem to stop worrying, the question that haunts me being: Why was I born? What is the purpose of my life?

ANSWER: My belief is that the purpose of life is to make a simple choice between good or evil. In more sophisticated cultures, that choice involves whether we believe in God or not. Our answer is shown less by what we say and more by what we do, our actions speaking louder than our words.

If you choose to view others as suckers of whom you can take advantage instead of potential friends, then you fail to learn how to be close to them, condemning yourself to be lonely, frustrated, and angry. When you are placed in the presence of God after death, never having learned how to be close to others, you do not know how to be close to God. Then you look around and see many who are close and, therefore, happy. Finally, you realize that this state of emptiness will last for all eternity. You are in Hell.

However, if, during your life, you give of yourself so as to receive love and friendship in return, you may not be rich or famous, but you will possess the secret of life, knowing how to love. When placed in the presence of God, you will be able to be close to God, your reward being to be eternally happy. You are in Heaven.

God gives us free will. The judgment of God is to accept your judgment. The punishment for choosing to be selfish is to be selfish. It saddens God if you choose to not love Him and your fellowman, but that is your choice. You choose to be happy or sad, to be in heaven or hell. He provides eternal life. You determine how you will live it.

You should not wait to make this choice on your deathbed, but do so every day of your life. The good thief next to Jesus made the right choice, but had only a few minutes of growth left. You, however, are still alive. Each day is an opportunity to grow, to become more like Christ, more of a Christian.

So, how are you doing? If you are on the wrong path, then wake up and change! If you are on the right path, then do not become smug and complacent, just keep going. Go to church to continue to learn more about the purpose of life and be refreshed for the challenge of each day. Then love your family, give an honest day's labor at work, treat all people as you would want to be treated, and worry not about the end of this life. The next one will be very happy.

This Wellness column is funded through the generosity of a grant from the J. Seward Johnson, Sr. Charitable Trusts. If you would like Father Stimpson to answer a question of yours on family life, daily living or emotional health, you can write to him at: Trinity Counseling Service, 22 Stockton Street, Princeton, NJ 08540. ## Board Candidates there is no such thing as a total mind-set for one group or another. But the division runs deep, and it reflects differing opinions on what children should be taught and how they should be taught it.

Supporters of Bucky Hayes, Cathy Loevner, and William Sword include current School Board members Ruth Boulet and Gina Kolata. In their letter to the editor in this issue of TOWN TOPICS, they state that the three candidates stand for accountability and rigor, and the belief that schools are most effective when there are standards and when there are expectations of clear outcomes.

Other supporters have suggested that Mr. Hayes, Ms. Loevner, and Mr. Sword stand for a more rigorous curriculum which is taught uniformly throughout the district.

Ron Lessard's letter, also published today, offers support for Jack Marro and Therese Flaherty. He cites the Princeton Regional Schools' core mission statement, "to prepare each student to thrive as a self-confident adult in a rapidly changing and competitive future," and says that this will allow all Princeton Regional students to become better problem solvers and more creative thinkers.

He also argues that this goal includes promotion of the idea that good teaching should be a top priority.

M. Therese Flaherty Borough Candidate

Therese Flaherty, a resident of Sturges Way, served on the advisory board of Princeton Young Achievers for four years and this year helped raise money for the Princeton High School Choir trip to Moscow.

The mother of two children in the Princeton public schools, she has been active in PTOs at Riverside, John Witherspoon, and Princeton High School. Before moving to Princeton she co-founded a private middle school for disadvantaged girls in Roxbury, Mass.

Ms. Flaherty holds a B.S. in math and economics from Tufts University and a Ph.D. in economics from Carnegie-Mellon University. She is a lecturer in operations and information management at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania.

Ms. Flaherty said that for the last seven or eight years she has tried to do something for children not as well-off as her own, and that this led to her work with Princeton Young Achievers. Now that PYA is launched, she said, she is turning her concerns to the School Board.

She would like more to see more progress in the areas of minority achievement and finances, and wants to help the Board work more effectively to educate all children.

"The most important challenge the Board faces is finding common purpose for the school system at the board level," she said. "It is also most important to assist administrators and teachers to work well together."

This is particularly important now, Ms.

Flaherty said, because negotiations with the teachers' union begin again in a year.

Having been in education for 20 years at the university level, she feels she can apply this experience to the betterment of the School Board. She also believes that through her volunteer work she has seen many parts of the community, and that this will help her work more closely with the community to manage assets. "When working with minority students we have a community interest in helping our students," she added.

Bucky Hayes Borough Candidate

Bucky Hayes, a resident of Hodge Road and the father of four children, received a bachelor's degree in government from Harvard and a master's degree from NYU Graduate School of Business Administration. He is chairman of Paxton Corp., a metal manufacturing company.

Active in youth sports for many years, he serves on the board of the Princeton Soccer Association and as an advisor to the YMCA's youth lacrosse program.

Mr. Hayes is seeking a seat on the Board because he believes the school system could be improved. "As a businessman for 25 years I think things could be done more effectively and more efficiently," he said.

The School Board as a role model for youngsters has been poor, he said, but he believes the board realized this and has taken a few steps to change matters in the past two years. "Certainly dissension and fractiousness has been toned down a little," he said, "but it is not where it should be."

Mr. Hayes's most immediate interest is the School Board's management process and how it goes about selecting those items on which it will make a decision. He would also like to work on ways to ensure implementation of Board decisions.

"The School Board does not always work well with the administration," he said, "yet the administration is hired by the School Board and reports to the School Board."

Mr. Hayes believes he would bring qualities of level-headedness and reasonableness to the Board, and that he could also contribute a great deal of experience in organizational development and management.

In addition, he said, his training in financial matters will help run an organization with a $35 million annual budget, "and who knows what the future capital budgets might be."

Catherine Parks Loevner Borough Candidate

Westcott Road resident Catherine Parks Loevner currently serves as vice president of the PTO Council and parent representative to the Garden State Coalition. She is also on the development committee of HiTops and has been active in district PTOs and in the League of Women Voters.

The mother of three children, she received a master of public health from Columbia University and a B.S. in political science from

Board Candidates

Queens College, Charlotte, N.C.

Ms. Loevner is seeking election because she believes this is a critical time for the school district. Financial restraints are a major concern, she said, as is the way the School Board addresses the Charter School.

The School Board, she said, should not allow itself to be distracted by small issues better left to the administration and should focus rather on the quality of education. "The School Board has spent too much of its time in recent years on such issues, such as talking about the break at the high school. This is something that should be left to the administration."

Ms. Loevner would like the board to take a more proactive role with regard to the State, which she sees as increasing the intensity of its role in local education. The board, she says, should take its concerns to the Legislature and become more articulate about what it would like the future of education to be in the State.

Ms. Loevner said her experience in public policy would be helpful on the Board. "I spent ten years working in Washington and I know how policy is made, what the process of decision making should be like."

In addition, she believes the past eight years she has spent involved with the schools and PTOs has enabled her to get to know teachers, parents, the community and administration. "I have had a good working relationship with people, which I think would be an asset on the board," she said.

Jack Marrero

Township Candidate

Jack Marrero, a resident of Cherry Hill Road, is senior executive advisor, National Conference of Christians and Jews. He is chairman of the board of Kean College and was member of the board of Beth Israel Hospital in New York City for 20 years.

A former teacher in high school in Puerto Rico, and the father of a daughter in middle school, Mr. Marrero holds an M.A. in human relations from New York University and a B.S. in business administration from Hartwick College, Oneonta, N.Y.

He speaks of his commitment to public education and says he believes public education is getting "a bum rap." When it comes to teaching, he feels that instruction in human relations is just as important as the imparting of knowledge.

Mr. Marrero said he would be a driving and helpful force in the financial aspects of the school district. Among his concerns are the need to care for the district's physical plant and the improvement of morale among faculty.

"I want to improve the perceptions people have of the Princeton schools," he said. "I hear people bad mouthing Princeton schools. We have very good schools."

Specifically, he points to his work on Beth Israel's $650 million annual budget as proof of his experience in financial matters. In addition to his knowledge of finance in nonprofit organizations, he said his other strengths as a board member lie in resolving conflicts and in his knowledge of relations with the state and with nonprofits.

William Sword

Township Candidate

William Sword, a resident of Rosedale Road, is chairman of Sword Holdings Incorporated in Princeton, a company he founded. A graduate of Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa., and Princeton University, he is a trustee of the New Jersey Historical Society and founding trustee of the Center of Theological Inquiry in Princeton. He is also an advisor to Princeton Young Achievers and the Young Scholars Institute in Trenton, and a trustee of the Princeton Area Community Foundation and the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation.

Mr. Sword is the grandfather of six children in the Princeton public schools, and this, he said, is what led him to seek a seat on the Board. He decided to run on his own. "I was not asked to run. Nobody volunteers except a nut like me," he said.

The major problem ahead for the district, he says, is financial, with people not willing to pay more taxes. He would concentrate on the areas of finance and facilities, and wants to modernize the high school from an electronic perspective.

In addition, said Mr. Sword, the threat of a second charter school is real, "and what comes after that is vouchers," he warned. He does, however, support the Princeton Charter School.

Mr. Sword said there was a group of people on the School Board who want schools in Princeton to produce equal results. He called this philosophy a "disaster" and said, "We don't have spelling bees because one person would win." His goal, he said, is achieving equal opportunity.

The teachers' union, said Mr. Sword is "way out of line" and should be told, "we will not let you get away with this."

In addition to selecting three new members of the School Board, Princeton voters will decide whether to approve the school district's $35.2 million budget. Polls will be open from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Richard Kluger

BIG WINNER: Montgomery resident Richard Kluger was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for General Nonfiction on Monday, for a book detailing the tobacco industry's efforts to avoid admitting to the dangers of smoking. He posed in front of Firestone Library, where he is doing research for a new project.

more than 800 pages, was published by Alfred A. Knopf in 1996. In it, Mr. Kluger combines six years of writing and research, including 300 interviews, to construct what he calls "an indictment of the tobacco industry for lying to the American people about what they've known to be true for 40 years."

The Philip Morris Company allowed Mr. Kluger remarkable access to inside information and gave him permission to interview scores of top company executives for the book. The company's only stipulation, he says, was that he try to honestly convey its point of view.

This he did, but Mr. Kluger remained personally unpersuaded by the claims of the tobacco industry as a whole that the addictive and unhealthy properties of cigarettes have never been proved. He gives the Philip Morris Company "high marks, in a perverse way" for the "marketing genius" that allowed it to sell a potentially lethal product to millions of Americans for years after the dangers of smoking were — in spite of the industry's protestations otherwise — apparent to all.

Although sometimes described as a journalist, Mr. Kluger balks at describing his non-fiction writing as "journalism." His work combines archival material with present-day interviews to create what he considers "social history."

The difference he, he says, is in perspective. According to Mr. Kluger, a journalist "just doesn't have the time" to step back and place his findings in proper social and historical context.

Major Was "Prince"

Mr. Kluger's career as a writer began when he was a Princeton undergraduate in the 1950's. His official major was English, he says, but as a four-year staffer at the Daily Princetonian and chairman of the paper in his senior year, he admits, "My real major was the 'Prince.'"

He wrote a column for the Princeton Packet during his senior year at Princeton, and the influence of Packet owner Bernard Kligore helped get Mr. Kluger a job at the Wall Street Journal when he graduated in 1956. From the Journal he moved through positions at Forbes Magazine, the New York Post, and the New York Herald Tribune.

He served as the Herald Tribune's last literary editor, leaving in 1966, shortly before the paper went out of business. He would later write the 1986 National Book Award-nominated The Poper, which documented the history of the Herald Tribune.

From the newspaper business, Mr. Kluger moved into publishing, working as a senior editor for Simon and Schuster, and serving as editor-in-chief of Atheneum Books.

In 1973, a severe problem with his eyesight left Mr. Kluger unable to read rapidly, forcing him to leave his career in publishing. The eye trouble was exacerbated by stress, and Mr. Kluger jokes that it may have been "my body's way of telling me to get out of publishing."

In the 34 years since, Mr. Kluger has had no reason to complain about his body's advice. His eyesight improved somewhat when he left Atheneum, and although it left him able to read only slowly (he dislikes public speaking and reading from his works for that reason) it has not stopped him from having a wide-ranging career as a writer.

His first non-fiction book, Simple Justice, examined the landmark civil rights case, Brown v. Board of Education and was also nominated for a National Book Award. It was published in 1976 and remains in print today. He has also written several novels. The most recent, The Sheriff of Nottingham, (Penguin) was based on historical research on an actual 12th century English Sheriff of Nottingham, done completely in Princeton University's Firestone Library.

In much of the Third World, peasant farmers must sell their coffee to mid-level traders at a very low price because they have no alternative market. Equal Exchange trades directly with these small farmers paying them a guaranteed price substantially above the world market price. This provides money for desperately needed health, education, and social services. In return, Equal Exchange gets these farmers' finest beans. These beans are dry roasted to evoke the best flavor and vacuum sealed to insure freshness. The Whole Earth Center is proud to carry Equal Exchange Coffees. Try them and wake up to a better world.

Next week we'll feature a major piece and a challenge to all holding or seeking office in Princeton and beyond, as we again attack the too many jackasses, idiots, and criminals in leadership positions. ## REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Tod Peyton

THE SHIFTING MARKET

Some weeks there seem to be several buyers for every house listed for sale in the Princeton area, and then there are times when houses seem to remain on the market for months with no real activity. You also hear stories about sellers who got sales prices that exceeded their asking price.

Many variables can affect the real estate market; it can go from a sellers' to a buyers' market, and back again in a short time. In a normal market, price and interest rate are the two most important factors. When interest rates are low, prices may edge up as buyers' purchasing power increases. As the interest rates go up, monthly mortgage payments are increased, and this may temporarily eliminate some buyers from the marketplace. In the shift toward a buyers' market, homes will sell if they are in a good location and priced well. Whatever the market conditions, a professional Realtor can sell your home quickly — and for top dollar.

For dependable individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Please feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.

Town Topics, Princeton's weekly newspaper, has a full-time position open in its advertising department for an out-going, detail-oriented person. The job involves handling display advertising accounts, many of them longtime contract advertisers.

Specifics include copywriting, layout and selling of new accounts. Previous experience in advertising, graphics and/or sales is preferred, but not essential. A car is needed; we pay mileage.

Town Topics will also have a position open on its editorial staff for a full-time reporter, beginning around July 1. Duties include editing news releases, coverage of municipal meetings and events, and developing and writing feature stories.

We offer a salary that is competitive with other newspapers, including dailies. Benefits include medical coverage, annual vacation, bonus and participation in an excellent profit sharing plan.

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below.
Please ask about: Lower Down Payments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options

For purchase prices up to $258,375, monthly mortgage payments (principal+interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.375% with 3 points, A.P.R. 7.585%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $690.88. For purchase prices from $258,376 to $225,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.525% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.94%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,538.97. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of Feb. 3, 1997, and subject to change. Not responsible for typographical errors; while information is believed accurate, we request that the payment be validated with a mortgage provider prior to purchase.
